An Unsuccessful Attempt to "Gag" the House.

The Great Viaduct Railroad Job Rushed Through.

Five Million Dollars Under the Control of the Ring.

The Reports on the Erie Classification Repeal at Length Submitted.

The Amendments to the Charter in the Senate—A New and Stupendous Job—The Grade of Streets to be Raised Between Broadway and the Bowery, from Chambers to Bleecker Street, &c., &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, March 28, 1871.

The latest Ring job, called the "Viaduct Railroad," was rushed through the Assembly this morning, in accordance with a programme agreed upon by the leaders after the adjournment last evening. The threats of TOM FIELDS and Speaker HITCHMAN are fulfilled, and the bill has passed "just as it came from the Senate," with the exception of a single amendment, which limits the operations of the Company to New-York and Westchester Counties. The amendment adopted in Committee of the Whole last evening that the Company should not consolidate with or lease the viaduct to any other road, was stricken out. Mr. WEED's amendment that no person not a stockholder should be a director on the road, and that $5,000,000 should be subscribed to the capital stock, independent of the five millions appropriated from the City Treasury, before the organization of the Company should be effected, was also voted down—showing clearly that the Ring have no expectation of getting private capital to aid in the construction of the road, but merely wish to get five millions of dollars from the City Treasury to manipulate for their own private purposes. Every effort to amend the bill so as to prevent its being made a private job were persistently opposed by FIELDS and HITCHMAN, who acted as spokesmen of the RING, and were steadily voted down by the men who had contracted to follow their lead. Even the provision authorizing the Supervisors of Westchester to bond the county in aid of the road, irrespective of the wishes of the tax-payers, was retained against the strong protest of Mr. SCRIBNER. This provision of the bill ought to insure its veto by the Governor, and would if it were a bill in which the Ring were not interested.

AN EXCITING SCENE.

The discussion on the bill gave rise to the most exciting scene that has occurred in the Assembly this session. When the bill was ordered to be taken up by a suspension of the rules, (requiring a two-thirds vote, which was obtained by false counting,) Mr. WEED, of Clinton, renewed his amendment which was pending when the Committee rose last evening, requiring the assent of the Governor to the adoption of plans of the road by the Commissioners. He argued at some length in favor of this amendment showing that as the bill now stood the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works of the City of New-York were authorized to adopt plans and lay out the route for a railroad or railroads, not only in any street in New-York, including Brooklyn, but could extend the roads into any county of the State.

Speaker HITCHMAN replied to this argument by insinuating that Mr. WEED desired to get his name inserted as a corporator in the bill. "I will inform the gentleman," said he, "that he can't get his finger into this bill; there is no room for the gentleman in it, and his opposition is useless," with a good deal more to the same effect.

Mr. WEED retorted in very severe terms, eliciting repeated applause from the galleries and from a large portion of members and others on the floor. He said that no gentleman would be guilty of insinuating such a cowardly attack upon the motives of a fellow member. His amendments were deemed simply and solely to perfect the bill and to throw around it such safeguards as the public interest demanded. He had no personal feeling with regard to the measure. When he asked to be taken into the bill it would be time enough to refuse the request. He stood here solely in the interest of the people, and to do his duty as a legislator. He had no "finger in the bill," and did not want any either in this or in any other nefarious scheme.

HITCHMAN, interrupting, asked what interest the gentleman had in the bill to repeal the Champlain Ferry act; to which WEED replied that he had the interests of the State of New-York. Before sitting down Mr. WEED gave notice that when his amendment was put to a vote he called for a count in advance in order that he might not be declared too late as he was last evening. Mr. CAMPBELL, of New-York, had been called to the chair by the Speaker, and when the vote came on the amendment he declared it lost, and refused to order a count. This brought WEED to his feet again, and amid the greatest excitement he demanded that there should be a count. The Speaker and FIELDS began to discover that this method of gagging the House and misrepresenting the votes of members was arousing the indignation of every respectable man on the floor, and they therefore appealed to the Chairman, (who had done nothing but obey the instruction given him before taking the chair,) to permit a count to be had. CAMPBELL obeyed orders, and ordered a count of the vote on the amendment. Mr. ARMSTRONG, the Clerk, made the count, and announced the result to be 44 in favor of the amendment, and 44 against. Mr. WEED challenged the correctness of the count, and demanded that tellers be appointed. A scene of great confusion ensued; the Chairman declared WEED out of order, and directed him to take his seat, while WEED claimed that he was in perfect order, and refused to sit down. FIELDS claimed that the count could not be challenged in Committee of Whole, while ALVORD, WEED and others, said that the right to challenge and demand tellers was as old as parliamentary law. The Chairman adhered to his decision, and kept hammering away with his gavel, and calling upon WEED to take his seat.

The uproar and confusion at length became so great that FIELDS moved that the Speaker take the chair and declare the Committee dissolved. This was carried, and CAMPBELL being called on to make his report as Chairman, said that the Committee had to be dissolved "in consequence of the ungentlemanly conduct of the member from Clinton," (Mr. WEED.) WEED retorted by calling the attention of the House to the way his rights as a member had been ignored and all rules of parliamentary law had been violated by CAMPBELL from the moment he took the chair. A motion was then made to go back into Committee of the Whole, which was carried, and the Speaker this time called JACOBS to the chair. WEED then renewed his demand for tellers to count the votes on his amendment. JACOBS appointed ALVORD and NICHOLS as tellers, and the vote was counted over, and the result declared to be 45 for the amendment and 43 against it. One of the members (BIGNALL) who had voted yea on the original count had meantime left the chamber, otherwise the vote would have been a tie. As it was, the result amply vindicated WEED in challenging the correctness of the count made by the Clerk.

The Committee then rose, and after the amendment adopted last evening had been stricken out, the bill was read a third time and passed by a vote of 110 to 8. The following are the names of those who voted no: Berry, P. Burns, Goodrich, Knapp, Lynde, Pound, Wade, Weed, Winans.

Mr. SCRIBNER and the other Westchester members finally voted for the bill with all its imperfections, rather than go on the record as opposing any scheme for rapid transit in which their constituents are so much interested.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CHARTER.

In the Senate last evening it was agreed rather by default than upon actual consideration, that the amendments to the New-York Charter should be acted upon in a Special Committee of the Whole this morning. At the opening of today's session Senator PARKER, who was not present last evening, called the attention of the Senate to the fact that it had been understood that business should not be pressed in this way, but that all bills should take their regular order, and therefore he moved that this bill be recommitted and take its regular place. Over this came up a discussion that at one time promised to be bitter. Mr. TWEED grew warm and proposed to ride roughshod over the minority, but the coolness of PARKER and CHAPMAN saved that danger, and the discussion went on in good temper. Mr. TWEED said that he had always treated requests of this kind from the other side with good nature, and if they had had ever made similar requests, and he had objected, it was owing to some temporary aberration of mind, or some vexation of spirit that ruffled the natural sweetness of his temper. LORD here came to his feet, and looking wiser than any man ever was, he said that he was unable to understand why Senators, in referring to the political parties in the Senate, should refer to this and that side. He said that, although he sat upon what was generally considered the Republican side, he had many friends upon the other side. He was opposed to this bill being pushed forward. Senators from New-York would hurry away early on Friday, and come back Tuesday with a huge budget that they immediately desired the Senate to consider, and then they were ready to go off again. By this form of proceeding they would be ready to take advantage of his (LORD's) resolution and make an early adjournment, leaving the country Senators to mourn over their lost bills. TWEED replied that if the Senate adjourned early he would leave more unfinished business than any other Senator, and stated that his Committee had reported more bills than any other. LORD asked if this multitude of bills was advantageous or detrimental to the State, and then TWEED put on the finishing touch and settled the canal representation by the retort that, as many of the bills came from the Senator himself, he should answer detrimental. Other pleasing amenities occurred, and dark flashes occasionally chased the smiles from the Falstaffian countenance of the huge son of New-York, but the peaceful look of assumed power came back, and all was serene. While CHAPMAN was asking some explanation of Mr. TWEED, Senator CRAMER volunteered an explanation, but Mr. CHAPMAN, with an air of objection to such interference, said to the Chairman: "I think the Senator from the Fourth can answer my questions." It was a heavy blow, and for a moment it seemed impossible to prevent an outbreak, but Mr. CHAPMAN gracefully recovered from the shock, and Mr. CRAMER was allowed to go on. The motion was lost by a vote of 18 to 11, and calling Senator BRADLEY to the chair the bill was considered. After being read through Mr. PARKER moved to strike out the public instruction clause giving to the Mayor the power to appoint the Commissioners, who are now elected. Mr. TWEED said that the present Commissioners were satisfactory to the people, and that this provision was intended to keep them in their position, since now no Republican could be elected in New-York.

Mr. PARKER—Will the Senator promise me that the Republicans holding the office now will be reappointed?

Mr. TWEED—I think so. I so understand.

Mr. PARKER—Can the Senator give me no stronger promise than an opinion?

Mr. TWEED—I can only say that I think they will be retained. If the Senator can give me the power to appoint, I can say that they will be.

Mr. PARKER—Under the vagueness of this assurance, I think the people had best have the power to elect them if they see fit.

Senator CHAPMAN desired that the power of removal of teachers and to purchase sites for schools should rest in a three-fourths vote of the Commissioners, since, even in the contingency of the Mayor appointing only a majority of Democrats, giving to the minority a representation, that representation would be inoperative without this guard. To this TWEED assented, and, copying from the law of 1869 the provision relating to this subject, it was adopted.

The technical points having been thus disposed of, debate upon the general features of the bill arose, and Senator KENNEDY, in an elaborate speech, reviewed the course of the Democracy during the past few years. At all times demanding, when in a minority, that the people of New-York should be self-governed, they made that question an issue, and claimed that it had been the open sesame that had brought them into political power. Now what do we see? Why, not satisfied with giving to the Mayor of New-York the power of forming the very commissions over which they had so long cried out, they propose to take away from the people the most sacred right of choosing the men who shall conduct their common schools, and make the selection of those officers depend upon the chief official of the City. He appealed to the judgment of the majority if this was not an exhibition of political inconsistency unequaled in the history of our State. After much of this truth telling Mr. CREAMER rose and entered into an extended discussion in answer to Mr. KENNEDY, and after retorting that the Senator was now crying against the commissions that he formerly supported, deprecated the remarks that had fallen in certain quarters that there was any sectarian danger in this bill, and sincerely hoped that Senators would not endeavor to bring up a religious war to further disturb our already unsettled country. Then Mr. KENNEDY, calling up the last night of 1869, when the political majority now was a minority, and the Senate sat far into the night to consider a question similar to the one the Senator now endeavored to suppress under an appeal to the sympathies of Senators, took out the wind from Mr. CREAMER's sails, and all having spoken, the bill, with no amendments other than the two-thirds vote already designated, went peacefully through the Senate.

A REPORT ON ERIE AT LAST.

Just before the adjournment of the Assembly Mr. FLAGG, Chairman of the Railroad Committee, presented the majority report of the Committee on GOODRICH's bill to repeal the Erie Classification act, and moved that it, together with the minority report, be laid on the table and printed. Mr. WEED then presented the minority report and asked that it be read. This was objected to, and FLAGG's motion was carried. An attempt was made to get the reports made a special order, but it failed, and it is impossible to tell when they will be taken from the table. The Erie supporters have found the "delay" tactics so profitable thus far that they will probably stave off action till the end of the session, if they can.

The Lake Champlain Bridge at Ticonderoga—Legislative Spleen Toward the Delaware and Hudson Canal—Traces of Erie Influence—The Enormous Canal System of 1870 to be Repealed—Screening Election Frauds.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, March 28.—The evening session of the Senate was consumed in the discussion of the bill repealing the act of 1869, authorizing a ferry and bridge across Lake Champlain at Ticonderoga. Senator PARKER opposed the repeal, and read a resolution passed by the Supervisors of Essex County, stating that the people of the county were unanimous in opposition to it. He showed that the pretense that it would obstruct navigation was without foundation. Besides the act authorizing the ferry was in the nature of a grant, which no subsequent Legislature could annul without rendering the State liable. The bill was progressed.

THE DELAWARE AND HUDSON CANAL.

The bill to repeal the charter of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, was to-night reported by the Assembly Railroad Committee. That such a bill should be favorably reported is perhaps the best comment on the lawlessness of this Assembly. Depriving one of the oldest and most respectable Companies in the State of its charter for no reason, is not the least outrage that this Legislature has intended. Mr. BARKER and Mr. WEED indignantly protested against the report, and a time was chosen when the absence of Mr. LEITLESHORE prevented him from raising his voice against the contemplated wrong. Of course the bill cannot pass, but that it should originate in the Railroad Committee, and having come to life there should ever be reported favorably to the House, will go far to throw around the Erie report the black shadow of corruption. Such an exercise of legislative spleen as this is worthy of the past record of the Railroad Committee during the session.

CANAL TOLLS.

The Canal Board to-night unanimously adopted the toll-sheet of 1870. It will be remembered that last year under the low toll system the canal revenues fell off more than two and a half million of dollars. The confidence of the Democracy in the taxable patience of the people is fully illustrated by this pouring into the hands of the boatmen and forwarders the moneys that should properly go into the State Treasury as the earnings of the canal. When, beside this throwing away of the people's money, is placed the tax of more than two million of dollars to pay the extraordinary repair bills of the canal, some approach may be made to a fair estimate of the outrageous mismanagement of our great internal system by the Democratic Party.

THE REPORT TO EVADE THE ELECTION LAW.

A resolution was adopted instructing the Judiciary Committee to report a bill directing that the candidates for State Senators and Assemblymen should hereafter be on separate ballots. The Democrats held a joint caucus of the two Houses after the adjournment to-night to decide what action to take in reference to the bill of Senator HARDENBURGH, to change the day of the State election, in order to avoid the Congressional law, to prevent frauds on the ballot. TWEED occupied the chair. HARDENBURGH, LORD, WEED and MURPHY favored the bill, while FIELDS, CREAMER, VAN SCHOONHOVEN and others opposed it. On the final vote, five Senators and twenty Assemblymen voted in favor of pushing the bill, while eight Senators and thirty-five Assemblymen voted against it. The bill may, therefore, be regarded as dead. The caucus unanimously renominated Mr. WEAVER for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

ERIE CLASSIFICATION.

Reports of the Railroad Committee to the Assembly—The Majority Against Repeal and the Minority in Favor.

ALBANY, March 28.—The Erie Classification Repeal act reports have been submitted—the majority against repeal and the minority in favor. They were laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

THE MAJORITY REPORT AGAINST REPEAL.

The majority report was submitted by Mr. FLAGG, and is as follows:

To the Assembly:

Your Committee on Railroads, to which was referred an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to amend chapter 978 of the Laws of 1868, entitled an act in relation to the Erie, New-York Central, Hudson River and Harlem Railroad Companies,' passed May 20, 1869, and to provide for the election of directors of said Erie Railway Company," respectfully report: The Committee, from time to time, heard counsel for parties who desire the passage of the bill and at whose suggestion it was introduced, and has also heard parties opposed thereto. The Committee find that the act which is now sought to repeal, generally known as the railroad classification bill, was passed in 1869, after long deliberation on the part of the Senate and Assembly, and at a time when the public attention was largely directed to the condition and management of the three great trunk lines of railway intended to be affected by it. The bill was in consideration in the Assembly for several weeks, and received more than two-thirds of all the votes of that body, and it passed the Senate by an almost unanimous vote. It is apparent that the object of the bill was to secure permanency in the management of our great trunk lines of railway, and to guard the Companies against the danger of being controlled for the benefit of rivals to the injury of the interests of the business public. Among the arguments which have been presented to the Committee no suggestions have been made which seem to be entitled to any weight against the principles of the bill. The opposition to it seems to be of a personal character, founded upon personal hostility to the leading officers in the management of the Erie Railway Company.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE BILL.

The principle of the bill is not new. It has had its place in our political system since the organization of the Government. The reason stated by Justice STORY in his Commentaries on the Constitution for its application to the election of United States Senators are cogent and explicit, and apply with equal force to the management of corporations. He says, section 715:

"From this change of men there must unavoidably arise a change of opinion, and with this change of opinion a corresponding change of measures. Now, experience demonstrates that a continual change, even of good measures for good, is inconsistent with every rule of prudence and every prospect of success. In all human affairs time is required to consolidate the elements of the best-concerted measures and to secure the little interferences which are incident to all legislation. Perpetual changes in public institutions not only occasion intolerable controversies and sacrifices of public interests, but check the growth of that energy, industry and enterprise which by wise foresight lays up the means of future prosperity."

THE ENGLISH LAW.

This principle has for many years been applied almost invariably to corporations in England and Scotland. We have been referred to the act passed in England in 1845, known as "The Companies' clauses consolidation act," and entitled "An Act for consolidating in one act certain provisions usually inserted in acts with respect to the constitution of companies incorporated for carrying out undertakings of a public nature," the preamble to which is as follows:

Whereas, It is expedient to comprise in one general act sundry provisions relating to the constitution and management of joint stock companies, usually introduced into acts of Parliament, authorizing the execution of undertakings of a public nature by such companies, and that as well for the purpose of avoiding the necessity of repealing such provisions in each of the several acts, and of framing the clauses so as to insure greater uniformity in the provisions themselves. May it therefore please your Majesty, that it may be enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords, spiritual and temporal, and by the authority of the same, that this act shall apply to every joint stock company which shall, by any act, which may be hereafter passed, be incorporated for the purpose of carrying on any undertaking, and this act shall be incorporated with such acts, save so far as they shall be expressly varied or excepted by any such act, and to the undertaking for carrying in which such company shall be incorporated so far as the same shall be applicable thereto respectively; and such clauses and provisions as well as the clauses and provisions of every other act which shall be incorporated with such act, shall, save as aforesaid, form part of such act, and be construed together as forming one act."

Section 86 of the act provides as follows:

SECTION 86. The directors appointed by the special act, and continued in office as aforesaid, or the directors elected to supply the place of those retiring as aforesaid, shall be subject to the provision hereinbefore contained for increasing or reducing the number of directors retiring from office at the times and in the proportions following, the individual to retire being in each instance determined by lot among the directors so as to secure that one-third (as near as may be) shall retire at the end of the first year after the first election of directors the prescribed number, and if no number be prescribed, one-third of such directors shall go out at the end of the second year after the first election of directors the prescribed number, and if no number be prescribed, the remainder of such directors shall go out at the end of the third year, and in each instance the place of the retiring directors shall be supplied by an equal number of qualified shareholders; and at the first ordinary meeting every subsequent year the prescribed number, and if no number be prescribed, one-third of the directors, being those who have been longest in office, shall go out of office; and their places shall be supplied in like manner; nevertheless, every director so retiring from office may be re-elected immediately or at any future time, and after such an election shall, with reference to the going out by rotation, be considered as a new director; provided always, that if the prescribed number of directors be some number not divisible by three, and the number of directors to retire be not prescribed, the directors shall in such case determine what number of directors, as nearly one-third as may be, shall go out of office, so that the whole number shall go out of office in three years."

An act with the same title was passed for Scotland, and this section is incorporated in it.

The advocates of the bill before the Committee, who claim to represent the wishes of some of the English stockholders of the Erie Railway Company, have not attempted to show to us that the operation of the classification section above set forth has been disapproved in its practical workings in Great Britain. Before 1845 it had been deemed to insert a classification provision in private charters, and the act of 1845 was merely an approval and reaffirmance of it by Parliament, and it is believed has its place in nearly every railroad charter in England.

PRECEDENTS IN OUR OWN STATUTE-BOOKS.

Our statute-books, from 1813 down to the present time, contain many acts of incorporation embracing the principle of this Classification bill. It was introduced in 1813 in the act providing for the incorporation of religious societies. It revised in 1848, and during the last twenty years in almost every one hundred of the charters which have been granted to corporations, embracing commercial, charitable and commercial objects, provision has been made for classifying the trustees, managers or directors. Our Judiciary system, under the Constitution of 1846, commended itself to the people by reason of the previous late Constitutional Convention, in which, when it came to the Judiciary organization, commenced and continued it.

ACTS OF OTHER STATES.

The impetus given to railroads by the great development of the national resources of the Northern States, and the increased demand for transportation during several years prior to 1869, rendered apparent the necessity for consolidation of interests and permanency of policy and management in great trunk lines. So we find the States of Pennsylvania, New-York, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and New-Jersey, almost simultaneously adopting the principle of the eighty-sixth section of the English "Companies' Clauses Consolidation act," and dividing the directors of the roads into classes. On the 25th of March, 1869, the directors of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, in their report to stockholders and bondholders of the road, set forth the reasons in favor of classification as follows:

"With a view to meet the apprehensions of the very large class of stock and bond holders of this Company, who are investors and not for speculation or other purposes, and who desire some assurance of permanence in the policy and management of a property in which they desired to allow the capital to remain, application has been made to the Legislature of Pennsylvania to so modify the charter of the Company as to give a degree of permanence to the Board by making it a continuing body, so that the services of only a portion of the Board shall terminate at each successive annual election. The Legislature recognizing the principle as one familiar to the State as applied to municipal, money and eleemosynary corporations, and as wise in theory, granted the application by enacting a law in the following terms, viz:

Supplement to an act entitled "An Act to provide for the reorganization of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, approved March 31, Anno Domino 1869, to provide for a classification of the Board of Directors."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That it shall be lawful for the Board of Directors of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, by lot or otherwise, to so classify the members of the Board, that one-fourth (as near as may be) shall terminate their official term as directors at the first next annual election thereafter, and one-fourth at each subsequent election, and after being thus classified the stock and bond holders shall elect only the number of the Board of Directors necessary to fill the vacancies created by the expiration of the period of service defined as aforesaid.

Signed, JOHN CLARK, Speaker of the House of Representatives; RUSSELL EVERETT, Speaker pro tem. of the Senate.

Approved the 31 day of February, Anno Domino, 1869. JOHN W. GEARY.

They further state that, by virtue of the power conferred in the second section of the law chartering the Company, the Board had accepted this modification of the charter, and filed the acceptance with the Secretary of State of the several States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and acted under the same by classifying the Board of Directors into classes, as follows: First Class—W. B. OGDEN, JOHN SHERMAN, THOMAS L. WILLIAMS, whose term of service expires at this election, (1869.) Second Class—J. N. McCALLUM, HARBURGH, PLINY HOAGLAND, [illegible], whose term of service expires at the annual election in 1870. Third Class—JOHN L. DAWSON, KENT JARVIS, L. H. METZ, whose term of service expires at the annual election in 1871. Fourth Class—G. W. CASS, J. F. D. LANIER, J. EDGAR THOMPSON, S. J. TILDEN, whose term of services expire at the annual election in 1872. So far as the stockholders have been heard from, the directors declare an unanimous approval of this amendment of the charter, and no fault has been expressed, and the Board could not doubt that the stockholders would collectively approve of the policy and wisdom of it.

We also find several acts passed in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin.

ILLINOIS.

AN ACT to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for a general system of railroad incorporations," approved Nov. 5, A. D. 1852.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the people of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That it shall be lawful for any railroad organized and doing business, or which shall hereafter be organized under any law of Illinois, or of any other State, by resolution of the Board of Directors or Executive Committee, to divide the Board of Directors into three classes, consisting of three directors each, of which one-third shall be elected annually, and to hold office for three years, and the term of office of the first and second classes expire on the day of the annual election, then next ensuing; the second class two years thereafter, and the third class one year thereafter. At each annual election, after such classification, the stockholders of such company shall elect for a term of three years a number of directors equal to the number in the class whose term expires on the day of such election. All other vacancies to be filled in accordance with the by-laws of said company. (Passed April, 1870.)

AN ACT to amend the charter of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company as to election of Directors.

SECTION 1. The stock and bond holders of the Chicago and North-western Railroad Company are hereby empowered at any annual meeting to extend the term of office of the directors of said Company to three years in the manner herein provided.

SEC. 2. If a majority of the stock and bond holders present in person, or by proxy duly authorized, at such annual meeting, shall so elect, this act is an amendment of the charter of said Company, the said stock and bond holders shall then proceed to elect by ballot six directors, who shall hold their offices for three years; six directors, who shall hold their offices for two years, and six directors, who shall hold their offices for one year, and the Board so elected are hereby declared to be directors of said Company. At each annual election held thereafter only so many directors shall be elected as may be necessary to fill the places of those whose term of office shall expire on that day, and that the term of office of all directors elected at any annual meeting after the annual meeting at which this act is adopted shall be for three years, and until their successors are elected and qualified. All laws inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

WISCONSIN.

An Act to extend the terms of office of Directors of Railroad Companies.

SECTION 1. The terms of office of the directors of all railroad companies organized under the laws of this State may be extended in the manner herein provided.

SEC. 2. Any railroad or railway company, organized and doing business under any law or laws of this State, may, by resolution of its Board of Directors, divide its Board of Directors into three classes, numbered consecutively, each of which shall be composed, as nearly as may be, of one-third of the directors. The term of office of the first class to expire on the day of the first annual election of said company then next ensuing; the second class one year thereafter, and the third class two years thereafter. At each annual election the stockholders of such company shall elect for a term of three years a number of directors equal to the number in the class whose term expires on the day of such election. All other vacancies to be filled in accordance with the by-laws of said company. (Passed April, 1870.)

AN ACT to amend the charter of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company as to election of Directors.

SECTION 1. The stock and bond holders of the Chicago and North-western Railroad Company are hereby empowered at any annual meeting to extend the term of office of the directors of said Company to three years in the manner herein provided.

SEC. 2. If a majority of the stock and bond holders present in person, or by proxy duly authorized, at such annual meeting, shall so elect, this act is an amendment of the charter of said Company, the said stock and bond holders shall then proceed to elect by ballot six directors, who shall hold their offices for three years; six directors, who shall hold their offices for two years, and six directors, who shall hold their offices for one year, and the Board so elected are hereby declared to be directors of said Company. At each annual election held thereafter only so many directors shall be elected as may be necessary to fill the places of those whose term of office shall expire on that day, and that the term of office of all directors elected at any annual meeting after the annual meeting at which this act is adopted shall be for three years, and until their successors are elected and qualified. All laws inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

THE ERIE DIRECTORS AND ITS STOCKHOLDERS.

Although the question of the acceptance of the provisions of the act relating to classification was left to the direction of the directors of the several companies, the directors of the Erie Railway Company did not take any action upon it until they had been directed to do so by the stockholders. At the regular annual meeting of the stockholders held on the 12th of October, 1869, four months after the passage of the statute, and after it had been the subject of much discussion in the newspapers of the day, the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That this corporation hereby accepts the amendment to its charter made by an act of the Legislature of the State of New-York, entitled "An act to amend chapter two hundred and seventy-eight of the Laws of 1868, entitled 'An act in relation to the Erie, New-York Central, Hudson River and Harlem Railway Companies,' passed May 20, 1869, (being chapter 918 of the Session Laws of 1869) whereby the Directors of this corporation are authorized to classify the members, so that as nearly as may be one-fifth of the number shall go out of office at each annual election."

Resolved, That the Board of Directors, hereby elected to and are hereby required and directed to classify themselves in accordance with the terms of the act aforesaid.

It does not appear that any opposition was expressed to these resolutions at that meeting. Since that time abundant opportunity has been afforded for the stockholders to reconsider the subject. Another annual meeting of the stockholders was held in October, 1870, and we are advised that no suggestion was then made calling for a repeal of the act, on the contrary the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the stockholders of the Erie Railroad Company approve and ratify the classification of the Board of Directors made during the past year, in pursuance of the instructions of a meeting of the stockholders of the Company held on the second Tuesday of October, 1869.

NO REASON FOR REPEAL.

No reason is suggested why the act should be repealed, except such as is based upon the hostility of a portion of the stockholders to some of the members of the present Board of Directors of the Erie Railway Company. Two parties seem to be struggling for the control of this corporation, entertaining different views as to the course which should be pursued in its management. The petition in favor of the repeal of this bill are understood to represent mainly stockholders residing in England, who have waived the exercise of their own judgments by submitting and placing their stock in the Erie Railway Company for management and control into the hands of a committee in London, whose interests cannot be supposed to harmonize in principle with the necessity for accommodation to the business wants of our own citizens, as with schemes for affecting the price of the stock on the London Exchange, or their interests in other conflicting railroad companies. With controversies of this character the Legislature can have nothing to do.

PRESENT EXCELLENT CONDITION OF THE ROAD.

It is a matter of public history that, for several years before 1868, the road, bed, tracks, and rolling stock of this corporation had been allowed to deteriorate so that it was scarcely attempted by those in charge to make schedule time with their trains; accidents were of frequent occurrence, and the traveling and business public had lost confidence in it, while the earnings of the road were paid out in dividends to the stockholders; now the road is in excellent condition, and we are not aware of any complaints being made that every facility is not afforded for the transportation of passengers and freight in a suitable and proper manner, and the wants of the public in this behalf fully met.

REMEDY IN THE COURTS.

If the parties who have been chosen directors by a majority of the stockholders are guilty of breaches of trust in their official capacity, the remedy is to be found in the Courts, as in all other similar cases. The Legislature has to do with measures rather than men. It is in the opinion of the undersigned, inexpedient to enact the bill under consideration, or to interfere with the act therein referred to. Respectfully submitted,

JOHN L. FLAGG, DAVID S. HILL,
JOHN J. BLAIR, JAMES BRIDGE,
DOMINICK D. SCOCHE, JAMES M. JOHNSON,

THE MINORITY REPORT FOR REPEAL.

The minority report is as follows. It was submitted by Mr. WEED to the Assembly:

The undersigned, a minority of the Committee on Railroads of the Assembly, dissenting from the adverse report of the majority of said Committee upon the bill to repeal or amend chapter 918 of the laws of 1869, known as the Classification act, respectfully recommend the passage of said bill as proposed to be amended and hereto annexed, and forming part of this report. The reasons for the dissent of the undersigned, and some of the facts and arguments that have induced me to recommend the passage of the bill reported herewith, are as follows:

THE ACT WRONG IN PRINCIPLE.

The passage of the law herein before referred to was, at the time, so far as this State was concerned, at least in the nature of an experiment, and it was claimed by its advocates that great advantages were to be derived from the adoption of the system of classification, for the reason, among others, that it would secure greater stability in the boards of direction of such companies, and would have a tendency to put and keep better men in charge of said roads, and it was claimed by its advocates that away with cliques in the Board of Direction of such companies. The then Governor of this State was induced to sanction said measure for these, among other reasons, and also for the reason that the bill had been pending in the Legislature for a considerable time, and had been before him some weeks, and that none of the stockholders of the companies affected had remonstrated against its passage. The only railway company that has availed itself of the provisions of the law sought to be repealed is the Erie Railway Company. The undersigned is of the opinion that the above results sought to be by the system have flowed from the passage of the act, but that on the contrary, as a simple proposition, without any reference to the manner in which the Directors in this particular road have performed their trusts, the act is wrong in principle and should be repealed, and that it has become the settled conviction of the people of this State. All of its apparent advantages are more than overcome by the fraud that can be practiced and the improper control of the corporate rights and franchises that can be had under the provisions of this measure; and that, too, against every dollar of the stock of the corporation as is possible. And not a large number of stockholders in said road, both foreign and those residing in our own State, petition for its repeal. No question is better settled in this State than that it is the right of every person to manage and control his own property, and the principle holds good with aggregations of individual wealth in property as well as with individuals. Under the law the Board of Directors of any company, availing themselves of its provisions may, if they see fit, acting strictly within the letter and spirit of the law, keep stockholders out of the possession and control of their property for three years, and part of individual property control thereof for two years more. The time has come, in this State at least, whatever may be the practice in other States, that the railroad corporations should be managed, controlled and possessed by those who own them. This, as time has demonstrated, is much better for the public as well as for the railroads and their stockholders. Railroads are valuable properties, and are of the utmost importance to the issue interests of the State and nation, and while the Legislature should see to it that they do not obtain too much power, they should also see that the property invested in such great public improvements, and the persons who have invested in them are protected from the mismanagement and rapacity of those who happen to come into the control of such roads, and who desire unlawfully to keep control of them against the will of their owners. It is apparent, and the mere as since the passage of this Classification act, that men who are legislated into the possession and management of a railroad without the usual yearly accountability of railroad directors, entirely ignore the rights of the stockholders, and if the honest men can, and often do, literally destroy the property they thus manage, and the most honest and earnest men in such a position never have and never will exercise that vigilance and care over property that they are not interested in that they would if they were the owners of it, or represented the owners. For these reasons the undersigned believes that the principle lying at the bottom of this Classification act is erroneous; that even under the honest management of the best of men the provisions of the general railroad law of this State, as to the election of directors and their terms of office, is wiser and better than those contained in this act, and for that reason alone this act should be repealed. The argument that political or municipal corporations have adopted the system of classification is not in point; they are in no way parallel cases. In such governments this principle prevents an entire change of political representation of a town, State or nation, where each and every voter must continue to be a stockholder as it were, in such government, and when the continuing officer must and does continue to represent the people. There is a very broad distinction between the management of a city, State or nation and the management of a corporation like a railway corporation, so apparent, indeed, that it is not worth while to elaborate it here. Nor does the undersigned think that the passage of bills containing this classification feature by a dozen States, from New-York to the West, at about the time this act was passed, argues in favor of the principle. It, on the contrary, simply proves a preconcerted movement on the part of the projectors of this law in these States, or at least a similar movement on the part of kindred railroad schemes in those States. It was both claimed and denied before the Committee that this system was in general use in Great Britain. The undersigned, however, does not believe it is important to discuss the question. It is apparent to him that however the classification principle may work there, it does not have any of the advantages claimed for it in its working here.

POWER OBTAINED BY UNSCRUPULOUS MEN.

But whether the principle of the act sought to be repealed is right or wrong in this particular case from the facts presented to the Committee, the facts contained in the annual reports of the Company for the year 1867, 1868, 1869 and 1870, and from the general history of the road, it is evident that a number of bold, reckless and unscrupulous men have, by means of this law perpetuated their possession and control, and from their present course will, unless checked by the legislative power of this State, continue to possess and control one of the largest and most important avenues of commerce that flows into this State, and that they do so in violation of the rights of the stockholders of said Company, and from all the evidences before said Committee, substantially destroying the rights of such owners. It appears among other things that the capital stock of the Erie Road was, at the end of the year 1867, at which time the same parties "substantially" had acquired control of the direction of said road, $35,111,210; at the end of 1868 it had been increased to $46,502,216; at the end of 1869 to $76,626,910, and at the end of the year 1870 to $83,936,010, showing an increase in the capital stock of the Company in the three years that these parties have had the road of $56,425,700. This increase of stock is not pretended was done under the direct authority of any law authorizing said Company to increase its capital stock, or by the vote of the stockholders of said Company, but was done under a statute here cited, which authorizes, at the least, and which simply authorizes the issuing of bonds to pay money borrowed and "necessary for completing and furnishing or operating their said road," (Sub. DIV. 10, section 24, General Railroad act;) and which also authorizes the conversion of such bonds into stock of the Company upon the request of the creditor. It is understood that such issuing of bonds, request and conversion of such bonds into stock has been carried on secretly and without the knowledge of the stockholders of said road, and that those who purchase the stock so issued were kept in entire ignorance of such issues of stock so being clandestinely made, as far as appears. What has been done with the avails of this immense sum is not stated in the reports of the Company, and those who appeared before the Committee for the Erie Railway did not see fit to make any explanation in respect thereto, or any answer to the charges made by the petitioners in respect to the misappropriation of the funds of the Company or the avails of said stock. It could not have been used, however, for the purposes authorized by the law; for such expenditure is shown to have been in "completing or furnishing said road," and the tables showing the cash receipts and payments of the road from year to year show that no part of this sum, or any other sum, was, in fact, wrongfully paid out for "operating" said road. Nor has the mortgage, or funded debt of the road been paid off by the avails of the great issue of stock within the three years, but, on the contrary, it has been increased. The total amount of the funded debt of the road at the end of the year 1867 was $23,430,920. The total amount of the funded debt at the end of the year 1870 was $28,496,000, showing an increase of $5,065,080. Nor have the earnings of the road increased in the ratio of this increased capital. In 1867, the total receipts of the road were $14,217,213, and the total payments other than construction were $12,368,513, showing a surplus on that year's business of over $1,000,000, while in 1870 the total receipts and payments were $16,179,461 06, and the payments were $16,471,483 09, showing that the road was run at a loss of $292,021. Nor have the directors of said Company divided such stock, so issued, among the stockholders of said Company, to represent the increased value of the road and its equipment, as some corporations have done or attempted to do, and yet the capital stock of said Company three years ago was only $60,000,000, and is now $83,000,000; was then worth in the market seventy to eighty cents on a dollar, and is now worth but twenty cents on a dollar, so that he who owned one share of said stock three years ago owned 1-600,000th part of said road, and his share was worth $60; now the owner of that same share of stock, having received no dividends of any kind in the meantime, owns

THE BROADWAY JOB.

Proceedings Before Judge Cardozo Yesterday.

A Motion on Behalf of the Corporation to Vacate the Order Previously Made—Arguments of Counsel—The Decision Reserved.

Yesterday being the time appointed for the hearing of the motion of Corporation Counsel O'GORMAN to vacate the former order of the Court in the matter of the Broadway Widening job, a large number of interested persons assembled at the Supreme Court, Chambers, in which the argument was made before Justice CARDOZO. The proceedings were watched with deep interest, especially by owners of property along the line of the alleged improvement, who were opposed to the appeal. There was also quite an attendance of holders of property in other sections of the City, in which street-openings and extensions have been commenced, and considerable solicitude was exhibited by them in questions relating to the constitutionality of the proceedings of the Board of Commissioners. The Broadway property-owners, who have combined to fight the motion made on behalf of the "Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty," had Messrs. IRA D. SHAFFER and HENRY H. ANDERSON to represent them as counsel in the case. Mr. DAVID LORD appeared on behalf of JOHN JACOB ASTOR and others. Mr. O'GORMAN and Mr. A. J. VANDERPOEL appeared in support of the motion. GEORGE H. FURMAN, Mr. ARNOUX, Mr. REDFIELD and others were also present.

ARGUMENT OF MR. O'GORMAN.

Mr. O'GORMAN said: If the Court please, in the matter of the application of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City relative to the widening and straightening of Broadway from the northerly side of Fifty-ninth-street, and also of making that part of Broadway between Thirty-second and Thirty-fifth streets, and that between Forty-second and Forty-seventh streets, of greater width than one hundred feet, it is my duty to move, in pursuance of notice, for an order vacating the order here made and entered in the Special Term Court held on the 20th December, 1870, empowering the Commissioners to make an assessment in said matter, and for such other relief as the Court shall see fit and proper. I move, in accordance with the powers vested in the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty by an act passed at the present session, entitled "An act in relation to the widening and straightening of Broadway in the City of New-York," to regulate the practice in that proceeding, passed Feb. 27, 1871, and inasmuch as that act has not been formally printed, I will hand the Court a copy of it. Your Honor, no doubt, remembers that in 1859 the Legislature thought proper to alter the map of Broadway, and directing that it should be extended and widened in the proceeds which I have mentioned. Under that act Commissioners were appointed. The act was imperative; it did not require the consent of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty, or any action on their part in the proceeding. It commanded that the matter should be made, that the title of the property necessary first should be acquired; that it directed the Counsel of the Corporation should take the legal steps necessary for acquiring that title. Acting upon that order, and rather in the position of a State than a municipal office, the counsel for the Corporation made the necessary applications and commissioners were appointed. By chapter 597 of the law of 1870, the time for report was extended to the Commissioners. On the 20th of December, 1870, the Commissioners did report, and their report was confirmed, having filed an abstract in the proper office, the Department of the Board of Works, on Sept. 24, 1870. It appeared by the report, as confirmed, that the total expense of this improvement was $4,500,847. The expenses assessed upon individuals as benefited by the opening was $2,421,153. The assessment in the City was $3,622,304, and that three and a half millions was apportioned thus: One-third of the total expenses was assessed directly on the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty, amounting to $2,024,515, and a separate assessment was made on Central Park amounting to $1,247,500. The Legislature of this State, reconsidering this question at this session, which has not yet expired, passed an act to which I have directed your Honor's attention, the effect of which was to enable the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty to appeal from the order of the confirmation of the report made on the 20th of December, 1870. It also enabled them to move before the Judge of the Supreme Court at Special Term, on a Chambers, for an order vacating the order confirming the report. This is the phraseology of the act: "And it shall be the duty of the State Court, or Justice, at which, or before whom, such may be made, to hear the same, and if it shall appear to the State Court, or Justice, that there was any error, mistake, irregularity, or any illegal act in the said proceedings for the widening of Broadway, at any stage of the said proceeding, or if it shall appear to them that the assessments for benefit, or awards for damage, or any or either of them have been unfair, unjust, or inequitable, the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty, or any other person affected thereby, the said Court or Justice shall vacate said order of confirmation, which shall thereupon be null and void, and shall refer the matter back to Commissioners, the majority of whom shall be others than the present Commissioners, who shall correct the said report, or to make a new assessment on the whole or part, as the Court or Justice shall direct." The State required that notice of motion should be served on all of those persons who appeared on the order of formation as having objected to the order, and that requirement was fully executed. Mr. O'GORMAN then proceeded to read the affidavits on which he sought to establish that there had been irregularity and illegal action in the proceedings of the Commissioners, commencing with the affidavit of PETER B. SWEENY, President of the Department of Public Works, who deposed that neither the Board nor any knowledge of an assessment was laid or proposed to be laid upon that portion of Central Park included between Fifty-ninth and One Hundred and Tenth streets, and Fifth and Eighth avenues, and also the affidavit of WILLIAM SINCLAIR, in the office of the Commissioner, to the effect that no abstract of the assessment was proposed on the Central Park property, nor was any sum assessed upon the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty at said time, and that no notice was served on the Park Commissioners, to his knowledge. Affidavits of the Mayor, as President of the Sinking Fund, and GEO. H. FURMAN, Clerk of the Commissioners, were also read, showing that neither the Commissioners nor Sinking Fund had received any intimation of the assessment; but it appears the Commissioners changed the awards on these lots from $450,000, as thoroughfare, to $1 a lot, or about that. He called attention to the 24 of Hoffman, sec. 225, declaring it unlawful for Commissioners to alter or amend any report after it has been filed, deposited and recorded by law, by increasing the amount of any other assessment for benefit, or diminishing any award for damage, and said that in this case it appeared by the affidavits that not only was the assessment against the City increased, but, in point of fact, no assessment at all against the City appeared on the report when first deposited for examination. But when the report came to be confirmed the assessment was amended and the abstract then deposited payable to the City, to the amount of $450,000, was diminished in the report, as presented for confirmation, and confirmed to $1. Now, whether that was unjust or not he would not discuss, but it was very clear that it is a matter of so much importance it was proper that the City should have been heard, and it is proper that under the power given to the Court by the statute passed this session, that the City shall now have an opportunity of discussing this question, so that if there be any injustice done it shall be done, and justice and right be administered not only to those for whom I appear, but all others who may seek relief on the premises.

Mr. D. H. LORD, on the part of JOHN J. ASTOR, WM. ASTOR and others, said that the assessment made on their property was unreasonable, and burdened with a disproportionate share of the expenses.

William J. ARNOUX, on the part of Nathan W. Smith, complained of the character of the assessment; Mr. C. Shaw complained on the part of Ezekiel Thompson, also on the part of Mrs. Butterfield, Mrs. May, St. John, &c.; Mr. Olin on behalf of Wm. K. Miller, W. H. Tilton, Oswell, &c.; Mr. Grant Nathan for George W. Fall and others; W. J. Arnoux for Eli White and others, who protested against the nature of the assessments imposed upon their property.

Mr. O'GORMAN said it was manifest from these affidavits that there had been an irregularity as regarded the assessments, and on the part of the citizens he asked for the relief intended by the statute passed at this session on the matter of the improvements. He reviewed the affidavits of the Commissioners, and submitted that sufficient evidence was adduced to grant that the order be vacated and new Commissioners appointed.

Mr. LORD addressed the Court, insisting on his title to have the award contained in the assessment; Mr. HALE and Mr. OLIN following in regard to the irregularities.

ARGUMENT OF MR. ANDERSON.

Mr. R. H. ANDERSON, on the part of J. D. PHILLIPS, addressed the Court, observing that a question of greater importance connected with the interests of the City and the administration of justice was never presented before it. The act under which the Counsel of the Corporation was proceeding sought to upset an act under which all street-openings had previously been regulated, and for the first time in the history of the State an attempt was made on the part of the Legislature to override the decisions of the Court, and to overturn a policy very essential in carrying out improvements of this description. He defined the nature of the act of 1813, and its bearings on the present question, and said that the success of the present scheme would relieve all the lots that had been assessed under this proceeding from assessment. In his opinion much weight should be attached to the affidavits presented before the Court, as there had been one adjudication upon them. At the opening of the case he had supposed that there would be affidavits not merely of extra assessments, but of some fraud or gross mistake on the part of the Commissioners. There were no such affidavits. He asserted that the Corporation was the moving power in this action, and it was folly to declare, as had been declared, their ignorance of it. The application before the Court provided that the Commissioners may assess such part of the expense as in their judgment was equitable, but did the counsel intend to claim that the City parks were not liable to assessment? In this connexion he referred to established instances to disprove the theory, and added there was no pretext that the Controller was not informed of the assessment, but even if that was not suggested by affidavit that the assessment of one and a half millions on Central Park was unjust or oppressive. Until he brought this matter within the clause of the act, he submitted the Court could not interfere to set aside the assessment, and if he decided that any irregularity was apparent in the proceedings that the proper course would be not to vacate the order, but to send it back to the Commissioners for correction.

ARGUMENT ON MR. SCHAFER.

Mr. TEN EYCK then spoke on the constitutionality of the act in a delightful and able address. He referred to the objections and points which had been anticipated was supposed to develop, and he was not a little surprised at the turn the argument had taken. It had dwindled down to an objection on the part of the Corporation that the Commissioners of Public Parks were not notified of an assessment of a million and a half on the property, but, he asked, was it probable that the Corporation Counsel, the predecessor of the City, and prime mover in the matter, was unacquainted with the facts? He quoted the similar case of STAYSONE vs. The Mayor of Albany, where it was decided that if there had been any irregularities they should have been stopped at the commencement of the proceedings, before the order of confirmation was granted. He submitted, on the subject of these awards, that, taking confirmed by the Court, it was beyond the power of the Legislature to divest them of the right they then acquired. Also, that this act, so far, it enabled the Court to set aside these awards, was contrary to the provisions of the Constitution; in other words, that this was not a due process of law. If these awards could be set aside in this manner, every bond could be swept out of existence, and every bondholder would have no remedy whatever. He described the condition of Mr. O'GORMAN in proceeding in the case without the proper papers as a move in the dark which no public officer should do. He asserted that when these awards were confirmed by the Court, they had a vested right which no Legislature could destroy. This action of the Legislature, if successful in west them with incompetent power, and the present motion was no more illegal than if without a trial, they decreed that on next Friday morning RICHARD O'GORMAN should be hanged by the neck until he was dead. He strongly adverted to the five days' notice of the proceedings given by the other side as unfair and unprecedented, and in a powerful argument condemned the policy which instigated the proposition, and claimed that the Court had no power to accede to it.

FURTHER DISCUSSION.

Mr. VANDERPOEL spoke on the legal points in the case, maintaining that the Legislature was perfectly within constitutional precedent in their action.

Mr. O'GORMAN summed up the arguments in support of the application. There were two questions in the case, not very complicated either; one was, whether under this law of 1871, the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York had a right to ask for the interference of the Court? If they had shown that the affidavits, which were uncontradicted, established the fact that any error, mistake, irregularity or illegal act had taken place in any of the proceedings, it became his duty to vacate this report to refer the same back to the Commissioners. He reviewed the points cited in the discussion, claiming that with a single head of the Department in the City had any knowledge of the assessment.

Mr. SCHAFER, in under tone, was here heard to say that nothing could tempt him to swallow so much dirt. Addressing Mr. O'GORMAN, he asked if he had any knowledge of them.

Mr. O'GORMAN replied that he had not, and continued to say that the affidavits read clearly proved the correctness of the charge of irregularity. He denied that the confirmation of the order by the Court made it possess vested rights, and cited from the 4th of Barber, relied on by the other side, to sustain his assertion. The question of constitutionality, he said, did not arise in this stage of the case, and the motion now before the Court was simply to vacate the order, and not refer it back to the Commissioners. In conclusion, he asked the Court to perform the duty which the law marked out for it.

Judge CARDOZO took the papers and reserved his decision.

The Jumel Estate—Further Testimony.

She testified that it was ever sixty years ago that she first visited Mme. JUMEL'S house; she remembered going through Broadway and Cortlandt-street visiting Mme. JUMEL'S house; heard her mother say that the Madame owned the property at the corner of Liberty-street and Broadway, and that the Madame and Mr. JUMEL lived there; she could just remember the great fire in Chatham-street; it was on Sunday; she was then a small girl; she was confident remember it at all except that it occurred as she and her mother were going to church, and there was no church service that morning; she had told Mr. CHASE that Mr. JUMEL and Mrs. BALLOU quarreled over GEORGE W. BOWNE, and there was no use of his (CHASE) looking any further for an heir, for GEORGE W. BOWNE was Mme. JUMEL'S child, and he not he knew it; she did not tell CHASE that she was sorry she understand what Mme. JUMEL and Mrs. BALLOU said; she had read various newspaper matters about the Jumel estate; Mr. BOWNE told her nobody opposed the will of Mme. JUMEL; she had read Mr. BOWNE'S letter; she employed Judge EDMONDS about this will before the will said was ended; BOWNE said he did not know that an illegitimate child could inherit until Judge EDMONDS informed him. The witness then gave considerable testimony about the family of Mrs. JONES, (POLLY BOWNE.) An original paper in this suit was shown the witness, and she said it didn't look like her handwriting; she signed a paper in the Surrogate's Office; but she say what they were; the signature was possibly hers, but until she saw the paper itself she could not say whether it was hers or not. A clause of the affidavit was read to her and she was asked if she swore "that JOHN BOWNE was father of SETH, THOMAS and MARIA, that THOMAS died childless, and MARIA, commonly called POLLY, was the mother of the deponent." She replied, "I did not swear to such a paper as that; nobody knew the mother of POLLY BOWNE."

The Court was here adjourned.

The Fire Commissioners and Mr. Bergh.

The following letter was sent yesterday by Mr. BERGH, in answer to the communication from Mr. GUILDERSLEVE, which appeared in our columns yesterday:

AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS, 1 PINE-STREET, NEW-YORK, March 28, 1871.

Charles E. Gildersleve, Esq., Secretary, &c.

SIR: I hear the Fire Commissioners have fallen into an error in their interpretation of the communication which I had the honor to address to them on the 20th inst. Any purpose I may not be voted for the accuracy of the newspaper extracts which I inclosed detailing the accident in Maiden-lane, but simply to avail myself of the incident to illustrate that notorious fact which our citizens generally are cognizant of, that the vehicles of the Department are driven through the crowded streets at a speed endangering the safety of pedestrians. It is correct, as you remark, that a fireman runs before the apparatus; but, so far as my observation goes, this is done only at intervals, and he immediately resumes his seat thereon so soon as, in his opinion, the danger ceases. Nor have I ever seen one of the horses driven faster than at a full gallop, and in a line as nearly straight and direct as due respect for any inanimate object which presents itself in the streets suggests to be prudent. You are pleased to allude to my "practical humanity," which causes my time. This sentiment, which I but share in common with the majority of my fellow-citizens, I endeavor to turn to the profit of the superior as well as the inferior animal world, and it is exactly in reference to the former that I ventured to address the Commissioners. But I completely fail to see the humanity or necessity of inflicting mutilation or death upon one set of persons in order to rescue others. I respectfully repeat, that it is not imperative that these engines should be driven through the Metropolis on a gallop; the prescribed velocity of all other vehicles is sufficient. One more reflection and I have done: In no quarter of the world do the public generally remember it at all except that it occurred as she and her mother were going to church, and there was no church service that morning; she had told Mr. CHASE that Mme. JUMEL and Mrs. BALLOU quarreled over GEORGE W. BOWNE, and there was no use of his (CHASE) looking any further for an heir, for GEORGE W. BOWNE was Mme. JUMEL'S child, and he not he knew it; she did not tell CHASE that she was sorry she understand what Mme. JUMEL and Mrs. BALLOU said; she had read various newspaper matters about the Jumel estate; Mr. BOWNE told her nobody opposed the will of Mme. JUMEL; she had read Mr. BOWNE'S letter; she employed Judge EDMONDS about this will before the will said was ended; BOWNE said he did not know that an illegitimate child could inherit until Judge EDMONDS informed him. It is correct, as you remark, that a fireman runs before the apparatus; but, so far as my observation goes, this is done only at intervals, and he immediately resumes his seat thereon so soon as, in his opinion, the danger ceases. Nor have I ever seen one of the horses driven faster than at a full gallop, and in a line as nearly straight and direct as due respect for any inanimate object which presents itself in the streets suggests to be prudent. You are pleased to allude to my "practical humanity," which causes my time. This sentiment, which I but share in common with the majority of my fellow-citizens, I endeavor to turn to the profit of the superior as well as the inferior animal world, and it is exactly in reference to the former that I ventured to address the Commissioners. But I completely fail to see the humanity or necessity of inflicting mutilation or death upon one set of persons in order to rescue others. I respectfully repeat, that it is not imperative that these engines should be driven through the Metropolis on a gallop; the prescribed velocity of all other vehicles is sufficient. One more reflection and I have done: In no quarter of the world do the public generally remember it more zealously, efficiently and humanely administered than here in New-York as well by the able gentlemen who direct it, as the heroic firemen who frequently perish in the discharge of their dangerous duties; but if the exercise of our responsibilities, it is incumbent on us all to so employ the resources of power and well-doing as not to do evil in our efforts to do good.

I have the honor, in respect to the Honorable Commission in whose behalf your note is addressed to me, I have the honor to be, your most obedient servant,

HENRY BERGH.

Brown, Cropsey, A. F. Tait, T. Cole, G. L. Brown, W. Bradford, E. W. Perry, M. F. H. De Haas, J. F. Kensett, James M. Hart, S. Colman, W. L. Sontag, W. F. De Haas, and others.

The sale of Mr. A. T. RICHARD'S pictures will take place, at the Somerville Art Gallery this evening.

Naval Intelligence.

The United States store-ship Relief, Commander G. H. PERKINS, in tow of the tug Catalpa, left the Brooklyn Navy-yard yesterday at noon, bound to Philadelphia. With the prevailing westerly wind she will probably cast off her tow outside of Sandy Hook, and proceed under sail.

The United States ship Nicaraguan will be obliged to come up to the Navy-yard for some trifling repairs around her rudder-post before she is ready for active service. It is possible she may be obliged to go into dry-dock, in which case she may be relieved temporarily by the Shawmut.

Quite a number of the officers of the Yard left early yesterday morning, in full uniform, to attend the wedding of Rear-Commander ALLEN V. REED, which took place in an up-town church yesterday.

PERSONAL, POLITICAL AND GENERAL.

Columbus, Ga., journals already report the arrival of mosquitoes.

A letter posted at Niagara Falls, and directed to "Schichagough, Illinoyse," has been forwarded to Chicago. One received at the Cohoes post-office, addressed to "Osiquis Falls," was sent to Hoosick Falls.

The members of the Press in Alabama are to hold a Convention in Montgomery on the 8th of June, to organize a State Press Association.

There are said to be millions of pounds of fossil ivory in Alaska. It is of excellent quality, and is worth a dollar a pound in San Francisco.

Mrs. SARAH LYON died recently in Hickman County, Tenn., at the age of one hundred and ten years. She had been blind for sixty years.

Reports from Georgia are to the effect that the wheat crop throughout the State has improved in appearance during the past few weeks.

The only prisoners in the jail of Johnson County, Ind., are two men, who claim to be preachers. One is there for horse-stealing, and the other for burglary.

The Petersburg Index reports that Mr. CHARLES PRIDEN, a prominent citizen of Prince George County, Va., was beaten to death by a negro, Friday night last.

The Louisville Ledger (radically Democratic) thinks Gov. ALCORN, of Mississippi, is looking toward the Democratic nomination for the Vice-Presidency in 1872.

CHARLES CARTER LEE, one of the brothers of the late ROBERT E. LEE, died at his residence in Windsor, Powhatan County, Va., on the 21st inst., in the seventy-third year of his age.

SAM HILDEBRAND, whose murderous course in Arkansas and Missouri during the war made his name notorious, was arrested in Hannibal, Mo., for being drunk and disorderly, on the 20th inst., if a paper published there can be credited.

An endeavor is being made to raise funds for the endowment of an Alumni Professorship for Illinois College on a foundation of $20,000. Ex-Senator YATES, who was a graduate in the first class of the College, is doing his utmost to forward the scheme.

Californians report that many of their small birds have been shot or poisoned, and that, seemingly as a consequence, many kinds of insects, before unknown or unobserved, have abounded in the coast valleys, and have done much injury in the gardens, vineyards and grain fields.

Three companies of the Fourth United States Infantry, Col. FLINT commanding, with the regimental band, passed through Indianapolis on Friday evening, en route from Fort Laramie to Kentucky. Another company went down the river from Omaha. The remainder of the regiment will be sent forward to the same destination this week.

A letter from Richmond, Va., reports that a brilliant meteor, leaving in its flight a bright train of light, and seeming to come down just a little beyond the limits of the city, was seen there, falling toward the north, about 11½ o'clock on Friday night last. It was on the same night that a large meteor was seen in this City and in New-England about 12½. Baltimore reports are at 12 o'clock on the same night, its course being due east.

Senator FRANK P. BLAIR has written a letter to an Alabama editor, in which he says that the contest, as waged by the Democrats, "is not to take away suffrage from the negroes, but to preserve that wise distribution of the powers of government without which all suffrage is but a mockery, and to prevent that control by the national functionaries which is sure to create imperialism, and will inevitably degrade, impoverish and enslave the toiling masses."

As some colored school children were playing ball in Raymond, Miss., on the 21st inst., the ball accidentally struck a small white boy, who happened to be passing at the time. News of the "outrage" was spread, and quickly a party of enraged white men collected and commenced their work by disharming their pistols "at random," resulting in the killing of one of the colored children. The whites complain very much of being oppressed in Mississippi.

A farmer in Almeda, Cal., reports that he has carefully compared the seasons of Central America and Mexico with those of California for the past fifteen years, and that he has found that they are very much alike, and that the wet season of those southern countries precedes that of California some time, and is a criterion by which to judge the latter. If their rains are scanty and late, or the contrary, the same, he says, is the case in California.

A Sacramento, Cal., gardener has found, in turning up an old hot-bed, a petrified peach, which, being struck by his spade, was split in half. The fibres of the fruit are said to appear as perfect as in the natural state, the pit being in the same condition. We read, also, in the Sutter (Cal.) Banner, that the body of a boy, recently disinterred there, was found to be petrified. The head, face, neck, hands and body all retained their original form.

The Nashville (Tenn.) Banner says it is certain that in several counties in that State, especially in those containing large towns, the number of negroes has increased since the taking of the census in 1860. Whether this increase will hold good throughout the State cannot be known until the census returns are properly collated at Washington. But the Banner says, that in Nashville, so far as it can learn, the mortality among the negroes does not seem to be greater than among the whites, while the ratio of increase is, if indications are to be relied on, much greater.

A suit for slander brought by a man named MAYNOR against one J. W. TAYLOR, in Murfreesboro, Tenn., was ended last week by a verdict in his favor for $6,000. MAYNOR remitted $4,000 of this amount, leaving defendants to pay the costs; but this liberal course did not placate the TAYLORS, father and sons, who followed him and his principal witness, WILLIAM HALL, out of the city, and killed HALL and wounded MAYNOR, the latter being both unarmed. TAYLOR was arrested but his sons escaped.

The "dark seance" of the DAVENPORT brothers was rudely interrupted in Charleston, S. C., on Wednesday night last, by a scoffer among the audience, who suddenly cast the light from a bull's-eye lantern upon the stage. It lasted but a moment, but a writer in the Charleston News says that in the dim light he saw distinctly the figure of a man, swinging a guitar, standing directly in front of the chair in which Prof. FAY a moment before had been tied and seated. The gas was relighted, and, upon examination, Prof. FAY and one of the DAVENPORTS were found tied to their chairs. The volunteer illuminator was put out.

Texas seeks to allure immigrants, and says, through one of its journals: "Our rivers, like Athena, leap into the world full-grown and full of life and promise. The San Marcos, at the foot of the mountains, rushes up from the unfathomed depths, through perpendicular rents in the rock. The water is perfectly clear. The channel is about twenty feet wide, and the depth of water at the shallow places from two and a half to three feet, with a swift current, affording splendid power for the propulsion of machinery. The San Antonio has its source from a series of springs, three miles above the city, of the same name. The Comal, at New-Braunfels, comes forth in the same way; and all excel the famed rivers of Damascus, both in purity of their waters and the natural beauty of their banks."

A private letter from one of the two Portland (Me.) ladies who were in Paris during the siege, says that before the city fell they had to come down to horse-flesh, and very good they found it, too. On alternate days they were able to secure a nice cutlet seventy-five cents a pound, and the other days they had to take pieces that were only good to make soup with. The two or three days before the end of the siege they received only twelve ounces of bread a day for their support, this being made of the remains of the flour, rye oats, &c., left in the city, all mixed together, and very unpalatable. After the siege was raised the supplies came in, and their delight was great when their baker said he could give them a loaf of real flour bread.

The Louisville Courier-Journal asserts that the Kuklux Klan was originally "a secret organization," peculiarly of Southern origin, intended to counteract the "Grand Army of the Republic," and the "Loyal League," and for the better protection of the families of Southern men from the depredations of robbers turned loose in society after the war. It says, on the authority of an ex-member, that it was established by the very best men in the country, the leaders of the Confederate armies, and extended from the Potomac to the Rio Grande. It was composed of men who loved peace for its own sake, but the hue and cry raised against it, and especially the fact that every villain assumed its virtues for the purpose of perpetrating his outrages, finally induced a disbandment of the organization.

POLITICAL.

The April Elections—Judicial Election in Wisconsin.

It should be stated that not only are there to be held elections in Connecticut, Michigan and Rhode Island, in April, as stated in the TIMES on Monday, but there is to be a judicial election in Wisconsin. This will take place on Tuesday, the 4th, and the people of the State are called upon to elect a successor to the late Judge BYRON PAINE upon the bench of their Supreme Court, both for the unexpired term and for the full term following. For this position the name of WILLIAM P. LYON, of Racine, has been suggested to the people by the Republican members of the Legislature and the Republican State Central Committee. Mr. LYON is now filling the vacancy by appointment of the Governor, and for about six years past has been Judge of the Circuit Court of the First District of the State. The Democrats have nominated for the position D. J. PULLING, at present Circuit Judge of the Third District, and said to be a violent partisan.

The Democrats of the Eleventh district of Connecticut have nominated WALKER FERRY, of Bethel, for the State Senate, thus completing the full list of nominations in that State. Speaking of Republican prospects in the Third Congressional District, the New-Haven Journal & Courier of yesterday says: "We have it on the best authority from the district that the dissensions among the Republicans there have been substantially healed, and that Mr. STARKWEATHER will be elected by very nearly the usual majority. There was nothing in the contest but the question of locality, and the disappointed ones have very wisely concluded that that did not warrant opposition to a sound Republican and able member of Congress."

New-Jersey Politics—Reapportionment and Redistricting.

The Republican Legislature of New-Jersey has passed the bill for the redistricting of the State for members of the House of Assembly, and Gov. RANDOLPH has signed it, having officially acknowledged the right of the dominant party to the arrangement of the districts, although politically opposed to them. Some of the Hudson County districts are based upon the Aldermanic districts created by the new charter just vetoed by the Governor. Unless it becomes a law, despite the Executive objection, a rearrangement will be required in that county. Under the new apportionment, according to the vote for Congressmen last Fall, eight counties will return a solid Republican delegation of sixteen members, and six counties a solid Democratic delegation of twelve members, the Democrats in the former and 16,906 Republicans in the latter being wholly represented by their opponents. The other counties divide their delegations, with a preponderance in favor of the Republicans. The total vote for Congress last Fall was nearly 168,000, of which the Republicans had 80,023, electing three Congressmen, and the Democrats 77,372, electing two. According to this return 14,013 votes were required for a member, which would give the Republicans 31 and the Democrats 29 members—a proportion nearly attained by the actual result, the Republicans having 34 and the Democrats 26 members in the present Assembly. The population necessary for a member is 15,119, and in the rearrangement Burlington is reduced one by a surplus of 8,417, and Somerset by 6,305, while Hudson lost one with 8,336, Sussex one with 8,049, and Essex one with 7,836. In Essex, Mercer, Middlesex, Somerset and Salem the districts were left as under the apportionment of 1860—those counties returning last Fall 15 Republicans to 9 Democrats. The following table shows the population, the vote last Fall, and the probable political complexion of the members under the new apportionment:

Counties.	Popula-tion.	—Vote 1870.— Rep.	Dem.	—Mem'rs— Dem.	Rep.

The New-Jersey Legislature also passed a law for the registration of all voters in cities containing more than 20,000 population. This will affect only Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Trenton, Elizabeth, Hoboken and Camden, all the other cities in the State being far below 20,000, New-Brunswick with 18,059, standing next to Camden.

A Racket Policy.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

More than one lawyer has had a hearty laugh over the report in your issue of yesterday, (and repeated in some of the morning's dailies,) of a decision by Mr. Justice SHEA, holding that a sewing-machine is exempt from execution, a an article of furniture. And they have greatly admired the profound erudition and the legal acumen displayed in reaching that conclusion. But did the Justice not know that all his great effort was useless and impertinent, for the reason that a sewing-machine is expressly exempted from such sale, by statute, in our statutes? If not, let him turn to Laws of 1866, vol. 2, page 1,685, or to COWAN'S Treatise, KINGSLEY'S fifth edition, page 824, section 1,556, and he will save himself any further hard work on that point.

LEX.

NEW-YORK, Monday, March 27, 1871.

THE ERIE CONSPIRATORS.

Demurrer to the English Stockholders' Complaint.

The Struggle in the United States Circuit Court Continued—A Brilliant Array of Counsel—Arguments of Mr. Field and Judge Hoar.

The great struggle of right against might in the case of the English stockholders in the Erie Railway Company, who seek to establish their coequal rights and privileges with all other stock-holders, and obtain redress for wrongs alleged to have been inflicted by a confederacy of conspirators, was continued before Judge BLATCHFORD, yesterday, in the United States Circuit Court. The case of JOHN B. HEATH and others against the Erie Railway Company and others, came up on demurrer to the bill of complaint.

THE COMPLAINT.

The bill alleges substantially as follows:

1. The plaintiffs are aliens, and the defendants residents of New-York.

2. The plaintiffs are shareholders of the Erie Railway Company, all of them, except CHARLES BURT, having stock in their names upon the Company's books. BURT holds a certificate for twenty shares, with a power of attorney for its transfer to him, but the Company has refused to allow such transfer to be made.

3. The Erie Railway Company is a corporation, which had, on Dec. 31, 1869, a capital of $25,106,800, of which $9,256,700 was preferred stock as to each without costs to either party.—Carman ca. Carman.

Judgment of the Common Pleas of the City and County of New-York and the District Court reversed, with costs.—Fell ca. New-York and Harlem Railroad Company.

Before Judge Gilbert.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A LEGAL NOTICE OF TRIAL SERVED BY MAIL.

The Central Bank of Westchester County vs. Atten et al.—The plaintiff served the notice of trial in this action by mail, and dated and mailed said notice on Saturday, the 4th of March, for "sixteen days" notice of trial, the case being noticed for Monday, March 20. Defendants' attorney returned notice of trial for irregularity, claiming "fifteen days only" being given, as Sunday, the 19th, could not be included in the sixteen days, according to section 407 and section 411 of the Code. Plaintiffs took an judgment. This motion was made to set aside the judgment as irregular and void—no sufficient "notice of trial" having been served. Judge GILBERT held that Sunday, the 19th, should be included in computing the sixteen days, and denied the motion accordingly.

Wm. H. Secor for motion; Odie Close opposed.

TUESDAY, March 28—P. M.

The subscriptions to the New 5 ₱ cent. Loan, for refunding the 6 ₱ cent. 5-20s Bonds of the United States, have reached about $42,000,000. This is nearly one-tenth, in a few days, of the whole $500,000,000 of 5 ₱ cents authorized by Congress, made in advance of the readiness of the New Bonds for delivery, and without a dollar received from abroad. The first arrangement of agencies for London, Frankfort, &c., is believed to have definitely fallen through by the withdrawal or non-action of Messrs. BARING and Messrs. ROTHSCHILD. We doubt whether any such combination is syndicated with Government bonds, Secretary of the Treasury. The New Bonds will be left to the fair and free competition of the various responsible Bankers in American securities in England and on the Continent who have for five or six years past done so much by their constant and active interest in the Old Bonds for our credit abroad. There is little or no question that the same interest will be taken in the New Bonds, on the withdrawal of all exclusive agencies, not only by sales of the 5 ₱ cents to English and Continental buyers not heretofore in United States Stocks, but by effecting exchanges of 5-20s for the New Bonds. In this country the agencies for the negotiation are also likely to return to the same channels which carried through our great War Loans in 1863-4-5, Messrs. JAY COOKE & Co., who popularized over $1,300,000,000 of these Loans, are already most prominent in bringing forward subscribers to the present Refunding Loan, which will ultimately reach the same sum in 5 and 4 ₱ cents in place of 6 ₱ cent. 5-20s. They have some [illegible] in the good work among the [illegible] York Bankers like Messrs. DREXEL & Co., WINSLOW, LANIER & Co., SELIGMAN & Co. and others, and, we doubt not, they will soon have more. Our present belief is that the first of $200,000,000 will be subscribed before the Bonds are dated and ready for delivery on the 1st of May, and that the other $300,000,000 will go off before the 30th June. The first $200,000,000 was left open to unconditional subscriptions in this country, first for only twenty days, in pursuance of a privilege to the representatives of the Foreign houses, nominated as Agents, to subscribe for the remainder at the end of that time. This privilege expired today, and, not being availed of, the Loan is now left open to our own people, free of all conditions, as a 5 ₱ cent. Stock, until the further notice of the Secretary.

The Gold market fell off to 110⅛@110⅜ ₱ cent. on the weakness in Exchange, and the prospect of the use to be made of the New Bonds, when ready for market, as a medium of Exchange on London and the Continent. At the close of the day the Cash Gold was reported not over abundant for delivery, and the market closed steady. Bills on London were 109½@109⅞ ₱ cent. The Public Funds of 1867 were 110⅛@110⅜ ₱ cent., which, counting accrued interest, brings them within 1@1½ ₱ cent. of Gold.

The Stock Exchange continues highly speculative on the Railway Stocks. The business in the Lake Shore line, on yesterday, which we reported in our last paper as probably 30,000 or 35,000 shares, turns out, by actual count in the Long Room and at the Boards of Exchange, to have been 81,800 shares, or about one-fourth the entire Capital. The same Stock was much excited again today, but the interest was divided, late in the day, with New-York Central, which went up 2 ₱ cent., and the Northwests, which made a further upward stride of 1@2 ₱ cent. The Rock Island, St. Paul, Wabash, Union Pacific, &c., participated in the prevailing buoyancy, and the aggregate amount of business in the Long Room, not registered in the official lists which are given to the newspapers, was very large. The Miscellaneous Shares were firm in prices, but less active than the Railroads. The Pacific Bonds fell off a fraction on Centrals and Unions, while the Union Shares ran up to 26 ₱ cent. Among the Southern State Bonds South Carolinas were weak, and fell off to 63 ₱ cent. Other descriptions comparatively neglected.

After the late Boards the following quotations were made as compared with Monday night, the absorbing interest in the market running upon New-York Central and the Western Railways:

We noticed a few days since the admission to official dealings at the Stock Exchange Board, of the Bonds and Stocks of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway Company, who have not only succeeded to the charter and property of the South-western Branch of the Pacific Road of Missouri, but have large Land Grants from the Government, within and beyond the State of Missouri, for prosecuting their work in the direction of the Pacific coast. Their statement to the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange was not only precise, but every way satisfactory. Our neighbor of the World, however, makes it the text for an attack upon the enterprise, to which the Daily Bulletin very properly and pointedly replies as follows:

"The World admits that the examination of the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange gives an assurance of good faith to the enterprises represented on its floor; and this is fairly inferred from the fact that the World is more cautious than it has shown in reaching its sweeping conclusions. The World, while correctly stating the aggregate of stock and bonds at $25,000,000, represents the lands of the Company as being only 500,000 acres, while the truth is that the road owns 1,500,000 acres, chiefly within the State of Missouri. These lands are now being sold rapidly at from $5 to $10 per acre; and, in the judgment of those most familiar with the country through which the road runs, may be relied upon to realizing an amount exceeding the whole bonded debt of $16,000,000. Whether that amount of stock will be, or not, a proportion for the resources of the road, we leave the World to judge from the fact (which it might easily have ascertained had it aimed to be just) that the current earnings warrant the expectation of $2,000,000 gross receipts in 1871, or $1,000,000 net earnings, the working expenses being at the rate of 60 ₱ cent. of the earnings. The World appears to be in doubt as to the Company's ownership of any equipment; and for its information, therefore, we would state that it owns thirty-four locomotives, twenty-five passenger cars, and 625 freight and stock cars. The World, also, might very justly have informed its readers that the Company owns the valuable charter of the Southern Pacific Railroad, which hereafter must, perhaps, be valuable to the road.

Thus far, it has not been found that the railroads in Missouri have outrun the wants of the rapidly-increasing population. It appears to be only necessary to open a line through any of the fertile lands of that State, and immediately settlers flock along the route and make the road a success from its opening. Mixed Works, or pioneer roads, the railroads attract the population, and the population support the roads. There is a class of slow-gait editors who cannot understand this wonderful elasticity in our resources. They would have it a condition precedent to all railroad building, that there be an existing population on the spot. We would remind the enterprising and sagely caution the public against investing in any road which has not this guarantee of success from the start. In the meantime, however, sagacious capitalists build the roads, with an intelligent reliance, based on a broad experience, that the roads will create their own traffic; and they find equally acute investors ready to buy the necessary securities; and while the pinety editors are pouring anathemas against speculative enterprises, both parties are making handsome profits, and the commerce of the country is being rapidly developed."

The earnings of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad, for the third week in March, 1871, were $32,776; 1870, same week, $28,847—increase, $3,929.

The Coupons of the Danville and Urbana Road, due April 1, are advertised to be paid at the Farmers' Trust Company, and the Coupons of the Bloomington and Western Road are advertised to be paid by Messrs. TURNER BROTHERS.

Messrs. M. K. JESSUP & Co. advertise to pay the April Coupons of the Chicago and Alton, Dubuque, South-western, Detroit and Pontiac, and St. Louis and Jacksonville Roads.

The week's exports of Domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods have been to the Currency value of $4,441,092.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

HARVEY FISK. A. S. HATCH.

FISK & HATCH,
BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
No. 5 NASSAU-ST., NEW-YORK, March 11, 1871.

We buy and sell at current rates, the First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, and recommend them to investors and others contemplating an exchange of their Five-twenties, or making new investments, as a first-class security, yielding a liberal income on their cost, combined with perfect security, and having at all times a ready market at quoted rates.

These bonds represent, by special act of Congress, a first lien upon the most productive portion of the Great National Pacific Railroad, which has already proved to be one of the most profitable and influential railroads on this continent.

The Central Pacific Railroad earned, in 1870, nearly $8,000,000, and the increase for January and February of this year indicate that the earnings for 1871 will reach from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

The bonds are well known in Europe, and are dealt in at the principal Bourses and Stock Exchanges of the world, including those of New-York, Amsterdam, Frankfort, Berlin and London.

We buy and sell Government Bonds, Gold and Coupons, execute orders in Miscellaneous Securities at the New-York Stock Exchange, make collections, receive deposits subject to check at sight, allow interest on balances, and do a general banking business. FISK & HATCH.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, Feb. 25, 1871.

Public notice is hereby given that books will be opened on the 6th day of March next, in the country and in Europe, for subscriptions to the National Loan, under the act approved July 14, 1870, entitled "An Act to Authorize the Refunding of the National Debt," and the act in amendment thereof, approved Jan. 20, 1871.

The proposed loan comprises three classes of bonds, namely:

First. Bonds to the amount of five hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States after twenty years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

Second. Bonds to the amount of three hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States after fifteen years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four and a half per cent. per annum.

Third. Bonds to the amount of seven hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after thirty years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

Subscriptions to the loan will have preference in the following order, namely:

First. Subscriptions that may be first made for five per cent. bonds to the amount of two hundred millions of dollars; of which there will be reserved, for twenty days, one-half for subscribers in this country and one-half for subscribers in foreign countries.

Second. Subscriptions for equal amounts of each class of bonds.

Third. Subscriptions for equal amounts of bonds bearing interest at the rate of four and a half per cent., and of bonds bearing interest at the rate of five per cent.

Fourth. Subscriptions for any five per cent. bonds that may not be subscribed for in the preceding classes.

When a subscription is made, the subscriber will be required to deposit two per cent. of the amount thereof in coin or currency of the United States, or in bonds of the class to be exchanged, to be accounted for by the Government when the new bonds are delivered; and payment may be made either in coin or in bonds of the United States known as FIVE-TWENTY BONDS, at their par value.

The coin received in payment will be applied to the coin redemption of five-twenty bonds, and the debt of the United States will not be increased by this loan.

The bonds will be registered or issued with coupons, as may be desired by subscribers. Registered bonds will be issued of the denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000; and coupon bonds of the same denomination except the last two. The interest will be payable in the United States, at the office of the Treasurer, any Assistant Treasurer, or Designated Depositary of the Government, quarterly, on the first days of February, May, August, and November, in each year.

The bonds of the several classes aforesaid, and the interest thereon, will be exempt from payment of all taxes or dues of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal or local authority.

After maturity, the bonds last issued will be first redeemed, in the order and numbers, as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The bonds will be issued at the United States Treasury, but the agents for the negotiation of the loan in Europe are authorized to make arrangements with subscribers for the transmission of the bonds to the agents through whom subscriptions may be received.

Subscribers in the United States will receive the new bonds at the agency with whom the subscriptions were made.

In the United States the National Banks are authorized to receive subscriptions, and subscriptions may also be made at the office of the Treasurer of the United States, or of any Assistant Treasurer of the United States, or of any Designated Depositary of the United States, in New-York

Notice.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot under any circumstances return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The latest reports from Paris indicate that the power of the revolutionists is on the wane. At Marseilles and Lyons the regular authorities have resumed the administration of affairs. Only 19,000 votes were cast on Sunday at Paris, the better class keeping away from the polls. Those cleared were mostly obscure persons, and those who are well-known were such as FLOURENS, BLANQUI, and PYAT. It is said that Paris now presents its usual appearance. M. THIERS, in an eloquent speech in the National Assembly on Tuesday, took the trouble to deny that he had any designs against the Republic. The organs of the Communists contend that Paris must be independent in the management of its municipal affairs. An article in the Journal Officiel advocates the nationalization of the Duc D'AUMALE.... The plenipotentiaries of France and Germany met at Brussels yesterday, and made some preliminaries for the negotiation of the Treaty of Peace.... In the British House of Commons, Yesterday, there was a debate on the question of prevent the exportation of arms to belligerents.... Carlist [and] Republican bands are causing trouble again in Spain.... It is the Queen and not the King of Sweden who is sick.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. SUMNER presented a memorial praying for a Court of Nations, to settle all difficulties without a resort to bloodshed. He also offered a resolution of inquiry into the case of FRED. DOUGLASS and others, who it was alleged, were not permitted the privileges of travelers on the Acquia Creek mail steamer. Objection was made, and the resolution not received. After a brief discussion with regard to the order of business, Mr. HOWE, of Wisconsin, continued his reply to Senator SUMNER's speech on San Domingo, and was followed by Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN, who defended the President's course. Mr. SCHURZ, of Missouri, then came to the support of Mr. SUMNER, and argued that the proceedings for the acquisition of San Domingo were unauthorized and without precedent. His speech was not concluded at the hour of adjournment.

In the House, after the presentation of two or three memorials and the introduction of a bill to encourage ship-building, Mr. SHELLABARGER, from the Select Committee on the President's Message, submitted a bill for the enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment to the National Constitution. The bill was read the first and second time, and then a discussion arose as to the amount of debate to be allowed on it. The matter was finally left to the rules of the House, and Mr. SHELLABARGER opened the debate in a speech explaining the purpose of the bill, defending its constitutionality and urging its passage. Mr. KERR replied to him, and after some further discussion the House adjourned, and the subject went over till today.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

A bill was introduced in the Senate yesterday to appropriate $18,000 to repay the Ninth Regiment National Guard, for money advanced by them for uniforms during the war. The bill authorizing the erection, by religious corporations, of school-houses and houses for the clergy was passed. The Governor vetoed the bill to allow the County Clerk's and Sheriff's offices in New-York on certain holidays, on the ground that there is a sufficient clerical force to keep them open, and the public interests require it should be done. The veto was sustained. The New-York Charter Amendments bill was taken up in Committee of the Whole, and amended so as to require a two-thirds vote by the Commissioners of Public Instruction to remove teachers and purchase school-houses. It was ordered to a third reading. At the evening session, Mr. TWEED introduced a bill authorizing the Commissioner of Public Works of New-York to change the grade of streets within the area bounded by Chambers, Bleecker, Chatham, Broadway and the Bowery, which was afterward reported. Mr. MURPHY introduced a bill amending the act authorizing the sale of a portion of Prospect Park, Brooklyn, which authorizes the sale of the lands recently in debate. The Assembly passed a large number of bills, among which was the bill incorporating a gas company in New-York to light all that portion of the City lying north of Seventy-ninth-street. The New-York Viaduct Railway bill, after a protracted debate, was also passed. At the evening session a large number of bills was passed, among them the bills to charter the New-York Advertising Company; to increase the jurisdiction of the Court of Special Sessions in New-York.

GENERAL.

Gen. PERDAMO, of the Cuban forces, has surrendered at Puerto Principe.

A Havana dispatch says the general impression is that there will be a decrease of the sugar crop of from one-fifth to one-fourth, as compared with last year.

The Grand Jury of Virginia City, Nevada, were charged by Judge BANNI, on Monday, to inquire into a recent hanging by "vigilants," and to indict for murder all connected with the organization.

The report of the Canadian Canal Commissioners, just submitted to Parliament, recommends the construction of improvements which require appropriations amounting in the aggregate to $10,[illegible].

By the fire on Sunday in Halifax, N. S., the following offices lost: The Guardian, $[illegible]; Britain, $[illegible]; Liverpool and London and Globe, $[illegible].

Resolutions were reported in the Massachusetts Senate, yesterday, approving President GRANT's recent message recommending the protection of the loyal people of the South, and requesting the Massachusetts Senators and Representatives in Congress to aid in securing the necessary legislation to that end.

A fire in Cambridge, Mass., yesterday, destroyed one of the buildings of VALENTINE'S Japan Varnish manufactory. The total loss is estimated at $[illegible]; insured, $[illegible].

Advices from the upper Androscoggin and its tributaries in Maine, report the snow there to be three feet in depth, and the weather to be excellent for timbering purposes.

A block in Hoboken, Mass., consisting of business houses, was burned on Monday night. The total loss will reach $[illegible]. The insurance is small.

The steamer Belle of Allen was burned at Algiers, near New-Orleans, yesterday morning. She was owned by the St. Louis and Alton Packet Company. She was valued at $[illegible] to $[illegible], and insured in Cincinnati, Wheeling, and Pittsburg companies for $[illegible] to $[illegible].

The Newark Methodist Conference, at Morristown, N. J., finally adjourned yesterday. Hackettstown was substituted for Port Jervis for the next meeting.

STEVEN MASON, a member of the Virginia Legislature, from Stafford, was arrested there yesterday, account of corruptly approaching officers of the City Court, to influence them to summon jurors favorable to the acquittal of Ex-Mayor CARDOZO. He was held to bail in $[illegible] to answer the charge. The jury in the Ex-Mayor's case were discharged, being unable to agree.

By unanimous decision of the Court of Appeals, at Albany, yesterday morning, the Court below (the Binghamton Court) is ordered to repeal sentence of hanging upon BULLOFF.

A snow-storm on Monday, at Farmington, Me., was more severe than any during the Winter. The snow fell to a depth of more than one foot.

The New-Jersey House has sustained the Governor's veto of the Greenville Commission Repeal bill by a vote of 19 to 31. It was not made a party measure.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, yesterday, the lease of the Lehigh and Susquehanna Road to the New-Jersey Central was approved by a unanimous vote.

The State Court of Appeals has reversed the judgment of the General Term of the Second Judicial Department in the case of the Brooklyn Park Commissioners against JAMES ARMSTRONG, giving judgment for the defendant, with costs. The opinion rests chiefly on the unconstitutionality of the act of 1870 authorizing the sale of the land free from the lien of the bonds issued under the act of 1861.

A fire in Sing Sing yesterday morning destroyed REYNOLDS & YOUNG'S hardware-store, Mrs. FAIRBANKS' millinery, and the contents of several other stores, and the Post-office and telegraph office.

Work was resumed on Monday in the mine of Mr. J. H. SWOYER, in Wyoming region, Pennsylvania. This is the first party of miners to see the "Working Men's Benevolent Association" at defiance.

Purity or Corruption?

When a burglar is caught breaking into a house, his first impulse is to throw away the implements of his calling, and protest that he is innocent of any nefarious designs. These tactics will probably be imitated by the confederation which has proposed to itself the task of suppressing a newspaper. After boasting of their plan in every corner of the City, and setting their arrangements, as they believe, in judicial quarters, they will come out and say that they never meant it, and that they have raised an "alarm" which is groundless. It is to be remembered, however, that their design for the campaign against the freedom of the Press was announced in the organ of Mr. MARSHALL O. ROBERTS himself, and that Mr. NATHANIEL SAINS, their agent, does not dare to repudiate it. They will be mistaken, however, in supposing that they have created any alarm. The Press can take care of itself, and is not yet reduced to the condition of living upon sufferance.

Many friends have assured us that not only their sympathy, but their money, is at our service, if the Ring and its Republican allies attempt to carry out their project. While appreciating the good feeling which prompts these offers, we shall be pardoned for saying that we ask for no such assistance as that which is tendered us. At the same time, if our friends believe with us that the widest possible circulation ought to be given to the real truth respecting the principles and motives which actuate the Tammany Ring, they cannot serve the good cause better than by inducing their friends to read what we put before them. We have every reason to be satisfied with the appreciation of our efforts which the public has hitherto displayed, but when people express their desire to serve us, we can only advise them to see that the exposures of the "Ring," which we are constantly making, obtain as wide a circulation as possible. Almost everybody can obtain some new subscribers, and that is the only sort of help which we can receive or acknowledge. Those who have encouraged us so much by their words have an easy way of proving the sincerity of their professions.

It would be a great mistake to suppose that this is a question of merely local importance. The issues we are raising here are those which concern the people everywhere. Let the Democrats acquire general power, and we shall see them rule the nation as they now rule a particular community. The leopard cannot change its spots. Democracy, at the present day, means corruption as the basis of government. Republicans in Connecticut ought to remember this, and apply in good time the remedies which might have saved New-York from the worst of the evils which afflict it. Democratic rule can lead only to one result. We desire to see a general stand made against corruption in every form, and this can only be accomplished by the united action of Republicans. If one man cannot give us what we seek, another will. The great principle will be vindicated, and the party which fights against corruption of Government and of the Judiciary will be sure to win in the end. The Connecticut Republicans will have an opportunity, on Monday, of testifying how far they appreciate the great issue of modern times. To be led aside by trivial differences of the hour would be very easy, and in that rests the only hope of the Democrats. Let us everywhere make a resolute battle for purity of Government in all its departments, and the people will go with us, and elect any candidates whom we put before them in good faith.

Praying at Soldiers.

The publication of the "accounts" of the Fenian Brothers who occupied the Moffatt Mansion in Union-square, in 1866, induces one to ask once more, how it is that the patriotism of the Irish in the United States can so completely overwhelm their sense of humor, and their general strong aversion to being cheated. The opening of the Moffatt Mansion was a kind of formal experiment on Irish credulity, and the accounts show that it was carried out with ludicrous pomp and circumstance. In the first place, the establishment of a belligerent "Government," on foreign soil, was in itself a huge joke, but this was suggested, and its real nature disguised, by the operations of the Southerners in Liverpool. The rebels really had their Navy Department in that city, which fitted out expeditions against the enemy, with as much assurance and success as if it were working on its own territory; but then, it had territory of its own elsewhere, and a regularly organized Government to back up its pretensions, and give it force and substance. It was characteristic of the Fenians to perceive only that the Confederacy had its seat on foreign soil, and dispatched military expeditions from a neutral port, and not to perceive at all the importance of having somewhere a political organization to furnish it with authority and standing in the forum of international law. The institutions which were set up in the Moffatt Mansion, were, on the contrary, the baseless fabrics of a vision. The "Head Centre," who presided over it, had no Circle. The "Secretary of Civil Affairs" had no "civil affairs" to attend to. The "military affairs" were all civil and peaceable as possible. The "bonds," of which the numerous "bond clerks" took charge, bound nobody; and "the Chief of Artillery" had no guns. The whole thing was, in short, a little comedy which "drew" about $150,000, and this was the principal performers divided among themselves.

Nevertheless, the general dissatisfaction caused among the Fenian public by the performance, did not prevent its reproduction under a new name in 1869, but with the "Invasion" left out. Money came in, and "war" was declared as before, to the huge delight of thousands of Irishmen, whose faith and hope seem to be absolutely boundless. The failure last Summer in Canada, was enough to damp the enthusiasm of any other nation. Even Parisians would have succumbed under it, but Irishmen hardly ever ask for anything but a change of leaders, for they firmly hold the French theory that when they are defeated it is through "treason."

Accordingly, we are now informed that the chiefs who have been of late presiding over the Fenian Brotherhood on these shores are to be set aside remorselessly by the recently arrived "exiles," who are hereafter to have the direction of all movements on this side of the water for the overthrow of the British Empire. This is very like what happened once before, when the arrival of JAMES STEPHENS, another renowned "exile," broke up the "Moffat Mansion" establishment, and turned the Centre, and the Bond clerks and chiefs of civil and military affairs out on a cold and unfeeling world. If this happens again, we doubt very much whether the "exiles" will meet with as hospitable a reception on this side of the water as they have hitherto received.

In connection with these convulsions here, Lord DERBY's recent observation in the House of Lords on the Irish trouble is worth notice. He says, what a great many Englishmen of the same standing are beginning to say, that, after all Irish grievances are redressed, there will still remain the very formidable obstacle to tranquil union with England, in the shape of Irish dislike of English rule—simple unadulterated dislike, without rhyme, or reason, or foundation. The Established Church is gone, and the Land laws have been amended, and the Catholic clergy do pretty much as they please, and yet there is terrible discontent—and what is worse, the Protestants are said to be no longer as devoted to England as they once were—the "idea of legislative independence which sprung up," as Lord DERBY says, in 1782, never having died out, while it derives additional force now from the concessions which Government has felt called upon to make on certain questions of reform. What gave the repeal agitation under O'CONNELL its deathblow, was the general belief that its success was hopeless. But since agitation has resulted in bringing about such tremendous changes as the disestablishment of the Church, and the concession of more "tenant rights" than its advocates even ten years ago dreamed of ever asking for, people have not unnaturally begun to inquire whether the old scheme of legislative independence is, after all, impracticable, and some of the baser sort are not unnaturally asking themselves also whether the species of agitation—that is, the shooting, cutting, and blowing up, which seems to them to have brought about the abolition of the Church and the new Land law—may not be made to effect the repeal of the Legislative Union also.

We think it may be safely said that there is only one argument against the repeal of the Union which has any weight with anybody besides Englishmen, but this is a very strong one, viz., the awful badness of the Government which Irishmen set up when they get a chance to set one up. The Moffatt Mansion Government was, to be sure, a farce; but then it, like the whole Fenian organization, does not afford the slightest evidence that the men who got it up and carried it on were capable of serious work—which a really well-acted farce might have done. And then, we are sorry to say, that in our times the cause of Irish independence has a foe of which GRATTAN, FLOOD, EMMET and WOLFE TONE never dreamt of, namely, the Municipal Government of New-York. Had it existed, such as we now see it, in the last century, GRATTAN would never have thundered against the Union, and TONE would never have invoked French aid, and EMMET would never have been hanged. CASTLEREAGH would only have had to distribute the New-York Corporation Manual pretty freely among the decent people of the island to prevent the heroes of 1798 from making any figure in history.

The Connecticut Election.

There are greater interests at stake in the election which is to take place in Connecticut on Monday next than the mere decision on the question whether MARSHALL JEWELL or JAMES E. ENGLISH shall be Governor of the State. The election is one of the most important that has been held since the war, and will have no inconsiderable effect upon many questions now agitating the country.

The Democratic victory in New-Hampshire has been followed by more remarkable results than were anticipated. Bad as the condition of affairs was at the South previous to that election, it is much worse now. The disaffected classes have been encouraged by it, and have become more daring. Outrages are of more frequent occurrence. The Democratic Press of the South hail it as a change of sentiment in the Republican Party, and predict that the day is not far distant when the adherents of the "lost cause" will acquire a controlling influence in the affairs of the country. So strong, by reason of numbers and the sympathy of the Democratic Party, had the Kuklux become in South Carolina, that the Executive of the State, unable to cope with it, sought the interposition of Federal authority. A proclamation was issued by President GRANT commanding all persons composing those organizations to disperse within twenty days. The result of the election in Connecticut on Monday next will be regarded in some measure as determining whether the command of the President shall be obeyed, or set aside through weakness.

The Hartford Courant states that the Tammany Ring "has resolved to buy Connecticut." Gov. ENGLISH has been in council with TWEED at Albany, and returned to Connecticut heavily laden with money, plundered from the tax-payers of the City of New-York. Since his return the drooping courage of the Democracy has revived. The "Ring" has determined to flood the State with money in order to gain a victory. A few hundred well-drilled repeaters would materially aid the scheme. Why should any of the means which have so often proved successful in New-York be left untried in Connecticut? The stake for which the Democracy play is sufficient to demand every effort. Each victory gained by the Democracy at the North is virtually one for the Kuklux of the South. It is celebrated by increased outrages, and is the signal for greater persecution of Republicans. The Republicans of Connecticut have surely powerful motives for straining every nerve to gain a victory. The defeat in New-Hampshire is to be neutralized, the lawlessness of the South reproved, the insult of Tammany's interference rebuked, and the hands of the entire Republican Party strengthened. We believe that there are in Connecticut a sufficient number of honest men, unbought by Tammany's gold, to cast their votes for the Republican candidates, and on the side of right, justice, and law. Every sign points to success. A large majority of the new vote is Republican, and the party is well organized. The interests depending on the issue of the campaign are of the highest importance, and an overwhelming effort should be made to bring out every Republican vote. In these days there is absolutely no excuse for "apathy" or indifference.

A New Restlet into the Future.

The prophets are on the increase. Since the instructive vaticinations of the Prophet BERKEY reached us from Europe, we have been favored with an account of a female seer, whose powers appear to cast those of most wizards totally into the shade. This new sybil is only nineteen years of age. She lives in Louisville, Ky. Her name is CAROLINE KLEBERT, and her chief occupation consists in going into trances. While lying in this interesting condition, she gives utterance to her predictions. They are strange and fearful; and, if unembellished by the profound mysticism and poetic grace of those of the Prophet BERKEY, they have a directness of meaning and a force of expression peculiarly their own.

The Louisville journals, which appear to be quite charmed with her acquisition, print elaborate descriptions of Mrs. KLEBERT and her proceedings. It seems that the lady went into a trance last five years ago, and stayed in it twenty-four hours. At that time she predicted the present attack, and accurately foretold the time at which it would begin, and the length of time it would last. She likewise predicted a third and last visitation, to come on in precisely seven years' time from the present one, and to end in her death. Finally, she also prophesied the late Franco-German war and its results. This would clearly be rather a useful woman to have about a newspaper office. We should be glad to offer her an engagement, and then, perhaps, she could let us know when the Republicans of New-York are going to settle their difficulties, and begin to work for the good of the community at large. The lady has hitherto been exceedingly communicative as regards future events. She occasionally has spasms, when several persons are required to hold her. In the intervals, she regales the company with "snatches of familiar song" interspersed with remarks in the German and English languages. These, again, are alternated with revelations of the future of the most appalling character. Among other pieces of information for which society is already indebted to this Western sibyl, is that there is to be a wet Spring; a hot, dry Summer; a dreadful epidemic of a new and horrible type, which will carry off all who are attacked, and a fresh and most frightful European war in 1872, to which the late contest will be a mere flea-bite.

Still more momentous and threatening is Mrs. KLEBERT's announcement of the woes impending over this country, which may best be read, perhaps, in the report taken down from her own lips for the Louisville Commercial:

"In seven weeks from today a war sign will appear in the heavens, which will last fifteen weeks and then cease. This will be the forewarning of a terrible war between the whites and blacks in the United States. The first battle in the war of races will be fought in April, 1872, and the war will be brief, but terribly bloody. After this war has ceased three years another war sign will appear in the heavens, indicating a renewal of the present war in Europe. This war will last about three years, and all Prussia will glorify. Nine years after this war ceases another sign will appear in the heavens above the whole world, which will forewarn people all over the world of a religious war. This will be terrible, even unto one part set unto another of the whole face of the world. It will last nine years, and will temporarily cease for seven years, when beasts wearing seven horns, each of the form of a huge sabre, will appear to the world in large numbers, and the people inhabiting the world will stand in fear. The oceans will become red, and no vessel can sail upon their face. Men will cease to write. Ten years after the appearance of this beast upon earth a cross will appear upon the face of the sun, and although the people were surprised to see the moon cover the sun, they will still be more surprised when they see this."

At this point, we are told, a convulsion ensued, and the utterances of the prophetess were heard no more. The reporter ventures upon the somewhat irreverent criticism that the predictions are, "to say the least, queer." Whether the dismal announcement that "men will cease to write" will apply to journalists and authors does not appear—but if so, it would unquestionably be a "queer" result. It should be a great comfort to people to reflect that in this Western sibyl they possess a prophet whose merits so far surpass even those of the coherent and impressive BERKEY. If we may be forgiven the employment for once of a metaphor taken from a classic game not altogether unknown in the neighborhood of Louisville, Mrs. KLEBERT can "see" the Prophet BERKEY's prediction and "go him better"—any conceivable Munchausenism in the same line.

The Way to Deal With the Rogues.

That the people of this Metropolis are living under a despotism the like of which the world has never before seen, is generally admitted even by those who are helping to maintain its existence. We are oppressed not by stern military force, but by a compact and complex system of fraud, designed and perfected by men without character or shame. It is a dishonor to any people to be thus under the thraldom of a small but audacious clique. It would be bad enough if we were the victims of a military despotism; but, as it is, we are governed by men who have risen to their present positions simply by cunning and unscrupulousness—professional politicians who have succeeded in forming a combination among themselves, so nicely adjusted in all its parts, that the fidelity and activity of all who compose it are assured.

It may be safely said that the intelligent and honest portion of this community ought by this time to appreciate fully the situation into which we have drifted. People are becoming conscious of the fact that the very tenure of their property, and the security of their persons, are endangered. Every one is asking his neighbor how long this state of things will continue? Is there no relief? Is it decreed that this state of slavery shall be endured forever? These questions demand a solution. A remedy must be found for the evils we have so repeatedly exposed. The alarming crisis in our affairs exacts a duty from every citizen, and it must be performed. An individual, alone and unaided, can accomplish nothing; but when combined with others—when all the better elements of society act in harmony—what may not be done?

The people want, and they must have, leaders—and, above all, organization. Let even a few men of known property and reputation—resolute, earnest men—determine that the present state of things shall be put an end to, and under them, as leaders, thousands of those who are suffering in silence will rally to what may be a contest for their firesides. Let associations be formed in every election district of this City, with organizations based upon them, and when their ranks are filled with earnest men, let these associations be united under a system of mutual co-operation. It will be the labor of but a short time to marshal in this way a host of resolute men who will be able to free us from our present perils. Frauds would be stopped at the ballot-box, and each man's vote would have its proper weight. When these results are obtained, there will be but a short term of life left to the "Ring." Its disciplined agents affect their purposes through organization. Let there be counter organization. Let party considerations be ignored. Let the only object be the purification of the City Government and the Courts. Issues like these will go straight home to the sympathies of this community, and every intelligent man will understand and accept them. Fighting the battle on this line, under earnest and determined leaders, with an organization of the good elements of society, will insure success. Who will take an active part in forming such organizations? Let us hope that a few men will have the public spirit to come forward and lead the way.

MINOR TOPICS.

An English Professor published, a few weeks ago, a plan for the abolition of war, similar to that indicated in the memorial offered yesterday by Mr. SUMNER, in the Senate. To the historical student and the believer in human progress there is no experiment more seductive than that which aims at the establishment of "a Court of Nations, where all questions may be decided without the arbitrament of the sword." But, unfortunately, like the poet's dream of the "Parliament of man, the federation of the world," it belongs too unmistakably to the distant future to be a subject of vital present interest. The greatest statesman of this generation underestimated his time when he placed his faith to "blood and iron," as the only ultimate argument in international difficulties. It will be time enough to talk of nations bringing quarrels, great and small, to a Supreme Court of Arbitration when we find a similar mode of settlement become the rule and not the exception in trades disputes and private litigation. There are too many open quarrels in Europe at present to render a Court of Nations in the slightest degree possible, for one generation at least. All that our Government can very well do is to practice the moderation which Mr. SUMNER's memorial, in pleasing contrast with previous manifestoes from the same source, inculcates. The example of international arbitration, carried out to the satisfaction of both sides, will do more to prepare the way for its general adoption than bushels of resolutions.

The affairs of France are in a sort of deadlock that cannot very well exist for many days longer. The only encouraging symptoms of the situation are that Marseilles is tranquil, and that at Lyons the regular authorities have resumed the administration temporarily assumed by the Communists. In Paris, on the other hand, the insurgents are, most unquestionably, masters of the situation. Already a scheme of municipal independence similar to that which we indicated yesterday, has been promulgated. The names given as probable heads of the new Government are, for the most part, fanatical theorists and blatant demagogues. Paris is perpetually furnishing us with analogies to the condition of our own civic rule, and in the fact that about one-half of the population abstained from voting at the elections of Sunday, we have an instructive parallel to the annually repeated process that has given us even baser materials than now constitute the municipal leaders of the capital of France. In presence of Paris independent and revolutionary, the Versailles Government keeps protesting, abusing, appealing—everything but acting, while the Assembly seems bewildered, and the army indifferent or irresolute.

BULLOFF, the Admirable Crichton of murderers, is certainly to be hanged. The Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed, unanimously, the decision of the lower Court, and as BULLOFF did not add to his many accomplishments that of being a Tammany politician, there is little probability of the Governor standing between him and the last penalty of the law. Next to relieving society of his presence, BULLOFF could render the public no greater service than by devoting the brief space of life that remains to him, to the writing of a truthful sketch of his checkered career. If he could, in the near presence of death, but lay aside the charlatan, and resume the manhood he so grossly perverted, we might have a narrative of talents misdirected and opportunities abused that would be no less interesting as a psychological study than valuable as a text for moral illustration.

The first legislative sop to the Roman Catholics, as a set-off against the withdrawal of the sectarian grant, has passed the State Senate. The bill professes to authorize the erection by religious corporations of school-houses and houses for the clergy. Under this plausible phraseology is disguised the practical removal of existing restrictions upon the acquisition of real estate by religious bodies. Taken in connection with the irresponsible powers which the Tax Levy bill seeks to confer upon four men in this City, it needs very little penetration to foresee the insidious but certain aggrandisement of the most despotic Churches, as the main result of the bill. History teems with examples of how much human freedom, and the purity of the Church itself, have suffered from the possession of great wealth and temporal power. There is not a truly democratic thinker in the world who does not recognize the fact that great spiritual corporations and republican institutions cannot coexist. But then, our rulers are men whom it would be the most ludicrous exaggeration to call thinkers, and with whom a greedy clutching at the spoils of office stands in place of all that they know of or care for true democracy.

The minority report on Erie submitted to the Legislature by Mr. WEED, is exhaustive, impartial, and convincing. He maintains that the Directors' Classification act was, when passed, understood to be simply a legislative experiment—that apart altogether from its special misapplication by the Erie directors, the provisions of the bill are in direct opposition to the recognized principle that it is the right of every person to manage and control his own property—that in practice the bill has produced no such logical results as its promoters claimed for it—that on the contrary, it has been productive of the most disastrous results, among which the following may be enumerated: A number of reckless and unscrupulous men have, by means of this law, perpetuated their possession and control of one of the greatest and most important corporations in this State. As undisputed evidence of their mismanagement and fraud, we have the record from their own reports that within three years $[illegible] have been added to the capital of the road, the disposal of which is unaccounted for. Or, stated in another way, the owner of one share in Erie three years ago owned 1-250,000 part of the corporate property, and his share had a market value of $[illegible]; while today, without having in the interval received one cent of dividend, he finds himself in possession of only 1-400,000 part of the property, with a share valued at $20, "and that hiding from his view at that." The criticism of the flimsy defense of the present managers is put with admirable clearness and point, and the reflections upon the effect of the perpetuation of mismanagement so gross as that of Erie upon foreign investors, receives the forcible treatment it deserves.

Senator HOWE has written a very manly and outspoken letter to Mr. THEODORE TILTON, in reply to certain strictures in the Golden Age upon the removal of Mr. SUMNER from the Chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Relations. The Senator from Wisconsin selects the article in the Golden Age for reply, "not because it is better or worse than others," but because of the position of Mr. TILTON's letter in the field of polemics. He assumes that its failure to describe the position must arise either through ignorance or deliberate choice. The three leading allegations—that the change was intended to punish Mr. SUMNER, that it resulted from his opposition to the San Domingo scheme, and that the punishment was dictated by the President, are expressly denied, and Mr. TILTON is criticised for some rather hyperbolical expressions he had derived from the minority in the Senate. The editorial reply seems to be lacking in the idiomatic vigor of Senator HOWE's assault, but both as they appear in this week's Golden Age will amply repay perusal. No one can question Mr. TILTON's sincerity, and he is always a man whom it is desirable to convince when he is, or seems to be, wrong.

Mr. SHELLABARGER, Chairman of the Select Committee of nine to which the Message of the President was referred, asking legislation which would "effectually secure life, liberty and property in all parts of the United States," has reported a bill in accordance with the recommendations of the Message. The bill, which will be found at length in our report of Congressional proceedings, is what the promoters affected to call for. Jurisdiction is given to the United States Courts over all offenses committed against the rights or property of citizens, acts of rebellion, are defined, and authority is given to the President to take all necessary proceedings for the suppression of lawless organizations. The bill met with opposition from the Democrats, and a debate commenced which will test the opinion of Congress on the subject.

A very slight perusal of the majority report upon the repeal of the Directors' Classification act of 1869, will explain the origin of the delay and hesitation that have attended its production. A more wretchedly one-sided, inadequate, and altogether flimsy report, was never presented upon a question of equal importance. No attempt is made to deal with the damning facts so ably summarized in the minority report of Mr. WEED, and the Committee betray their thoroughly partisan bias by dismissing the opposition with the curt phrase that it is "founded upon personal hostility to the leading officers in the management of the Erie Railway Company." Two other propositions are laid down by the majority, viz., that "the principle of the bill is not new, and that legislation of a similar character has been applied to railroad management in Great Britain and in other States." This last phenomenon is satisfactorily explained in the report of Mr. WEED. The report, which is really contained in the opening and closing paragraphs, concludes with a restoration of the statement of personal hostility against FISK, GOULD and Co., with a gratuitous and contemptibly lame assertion about the intentions of the English shareholders, and with the highly gratifying announcement that the road is in excellent condition, and fully meets the public wants. A more conclusive proof could not have been given of the weakness of the case in favor of Erie than this miserable attempt at whitewashing its management.

The rapidity with which the Democratic majority at Albany are demolishing democratic institutions, is fitted to arouse the most torpid of our educated citizens. Yesterday the Viaduct Railroad bill was hurried through the Assembly "just as it came from the Senate." Among the various provisions for public spoliation, is one authorizing the Supervisors of Westchester to bond the county on behalf of the road, whether the people are opposed to such an exaction or not. A companion instance of the Imperial power aimed at by the Ring, will be found in Mr. CHEEKER's bill for the vesting of the appointment of the Board of Education in the Mayor of this City, which yesterday passed the Senate. Senator KERNAN showed how grossly inconsistent is this bill with previous Democratic professions, and how completely it proves the hollowness of their expressed solicitude for popular self-government. We have already shown how essential a part of the scheme of the Ring this measure is, and how greedy the people will be cheated of their rights when it has become law.

JEFF. DAVIS.

Here About His Speech in Selma—The Cause of the Rebellion Not One of the Dead Issues with Him.

We find in the Selma (Ala.) Press of Saturday last a more complete account of the reception given JEFFERSON DAVIS, in that city, than was contained in the Democratic papers published there. The Press, which is a Republican paper, describes the affair and reports DAVIS' speech thus:

"Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS, President of a Memphis life-insurance company, arrived in this city on Sunday night, from Montgomery. On Monday he received many calls, and in the evening he held quite a levee in the parlor of Knipp's Hotel, which was attended by a large number of ladies and gentlemen. About 11 o'clock a brass band appeared on Alabama-street, in front of the hotel, accompanied by a crowd of one or three hundred people. The band discoursed 'The Bonnie Blue Flag,' and in the cessation of the music, loud calls were made for 'DAVIS,' 'DAVIS.' In answer to the call the chief of the fallen Confederacy appeared on the balcony, and addressed the crowd for about ten minutes in a strain of impressive eloquence, which held the assembled office upon his hearers. He commenced by complimenting, in general terms, the people of Alabama. He had always loved them, and now felt that he could rest in peace with them forever. They were both of his bone, and flesh of his flesh. Alabama and his own State of Mississippi were not one in principle, as they once had been one in Territory. Their people had sent forth their sons to battle on the same fields for their rights as States. But, asked the speaker with bitter emphasis, are they States now? Yet, proceeding in an ironical tone, he declared that State sovereignty was not defeated in the late struggle, will ultimately triumph, its day of success might not come in his time, but he would live and die in the belief that it would surely triumph. He declared that no people on earth had ever suffered as had the Southern people since the surrender of the Southern armies, and he loved them for the fortitude with which they had borne the oppression heaped upon them. He had always been willing to pour his life for his people, and now, if any Yankee power wanted his blood to atone for any action of the Southern people, they could take it. On him the Government had done its worst, and for himself he did not care, but for the sake of the people whom he loved, he would forbear to make more fully the feelings of his heart. He never had asked pardon for what he had done, and he never would, for he felt that he had done no wrong. Mr. DAVIS concluded amid the applause of the crowd, which had loudly cheered the salient points of his speech. As he retired, the band struck up "Dixie," after which calls were made for Gen. PETTUS and Gen. MORGAN, but no response was accorded, and the crowd soon after separated. Mr. DAVIS looks to be in fine health."

Commenting editorially upon these utterances, the Press says:

"In his brief speech in this city on Monday night last JEFFERSON DAVIS reiterated his faith in the doctrine of State sovereignty, and asserted his belief in its ultimate triumph. This is the first occasion of which we have any knowledge that Mr. DAVIS has, in public, touched upon the general political questions that agitate the country. It is just by the recent election in New-Hampshire, the native State of his friend PIERCE, produced an unusual degree of exultation in his mind. It may be that the expectation of a Democratic success in the Presidential contest of 1872 was strengthened and confirmed into confidence, and he, we could no doubt consider such a victory as the ultimate triumph of State sovereignty. It is well that the people all over the country should know that so distinguished a champion of State sovereignty as JEFFERSON DAVIS has not given up the hope of the ultimate triumph of that cause. In its behalf great armies have been raised, a gigantic war waged, bloody battles fought, public debt has been piled mountain high, and widows and orphans created by hundreds of thousands—yet it did not succeed. But now the ch

Issue of the New Government at Paris—Terms of the Communist Journals—Majority of the Elections on Sunday—The Best Citizens Abstain from Voting—Speech of President Thiers.

PARIS, March 28.—The official journal of the Central Republican Committee, in an editorial in today's issue, says the first task of the newly-elected municipality of Paris will be the compilation of a charter that will secure the rights of the people, and prevent the representation of the large towns being swamped by the country. A second article in the same journal demands that all matters essentially Parisian must be within the domain of the Commune.

La Nouvelle République advises the Commune to promulgate the dissolution of the rotten Assembly, and to impeach its members.

La Vérité says the Deputies from Paris to the National Assembly have determined to resign, and merely await the opportunity. The same journal says that a new Ministry will soon be formed, which will include the Duc DE BROGLIE in the office of Foreign Affairs, and Marshal MCMAHON in the Ministry of War.

The Conservatives were successful in Sunday's elections only in the Arrondissements of the Bourse, the Louvre and Passy. The rich generally obtained from visiting the polls, and the merchants voted the Conservative ticket. The individuals elected are obscure, with the exceptions of FLOURENS, BLANQUI, PYAT, and GAMBON.

Barricading continues, and the utmost vigilance is manifested by the insurgent Nationals. The Place Vendome has the aspect of a camp.

It is said the Versailles Government is negotiating with the Prussians to allow an increase of the number of French troops on this side of the Loire.

Rumor says that Gen. CREMER is suspected by the Committee, and has gone to Versailles.

VERSAILLES, March 27.—M. THIERS made an eloquent though brief address in the National Assembly today, in which he defended the wisdom of his policy, and took a solemn oath that he would not betray the Republic.

LONDON, March 28.—The Times' special dispatch says that Paris has nearly resumed its usual appearance.

Of 500,000 electors in Paris only 200,000 voted at the elections of Sunday. Twenty of the members of the Committee were elected.

It is expected that M. BLANQUI will be the President of the new Government, and that its power will centre in FLOURENS, PYAT, DELESCLUZE, LEFRANC and VERMOREL.

Four Generals are occupied at Versailles with the question of the military reorganization of the country.

The Times special also states that the Prussians daily ask the Versailles Government to agree to the German occupation of Paris, and are as frequently refused.

Quiet Returning at Marseilles—The Regular Authorities Restored at Lyons—The German Army of Occupation Stationary—Assassination of Duc D'Aumale Advocated.

VERSAILLES, March 28.—Marseilles continues tranquil. At Lyons the regular authorities have resumed the administration of affairs, and at St. Etienne, where the Reds obtained control for a while, the Government officers have been restored, and order now prevails.

The army of Prince FREDERICK CHARLES, occupying France, which has been in motion for a few days past, is now stationary.

PARIS, March 28.—Le Soir reports that 180,000 votes were cast at the elections of Sunday, about half the number polled at the last plebiscite.

The Journal Officiel contains an article signed by VAILLANT, advocating the assassination of the Duke D'AUMALE.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

Preparing for the Final Peace Negotiations—Debate in the British House of Commons—Expectation of Aims to Belligerents.

BRUSSELS, March 28.—The plenipotentiaries of France and Germany met at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the French Legation. The opening proceedings were wholly formal. Credentials were exchanged and preparations made for future meetings.

LONDON, March 28.—The House of Lords adjourned to-night after an uninteresting discussion of the defects of the present military system.

In the House of Commons the drift of debate was toward legislation to prevent the exportation of arms to belligerents. Messrs. LOWTHER, JAMES, PALMER and others advocated Parliamentary action, but the Attorney-General thought the existing laws sufficient. Increased stringency would tend to make such restrictions inoperative.

Private Property at Sea—Disturbances in Spain—Illness of the Queen of Sweden—Reduction of the Income Tax in Italy.

BRUSSELS, March 27.—The Nord say the initiative proceedings taken by the Cabinet of the Hague toward the neutralization of private property at sea has been entirely successful. The Nord adds that a proposition similar to that of the Dutch Government was made by Austria to Prince BISMARCK.

MADRID, March 27.—The Imparcial (newspaper) of today has information that a Carlist band of sixty men has been beaten and dispersed in the Province of Lerida. There were attempts at disorder on Sunday in Saragossa, Cordova, and Valencia. Republican agitation is reported from Antequera (Andalusia?) and Carlist demonstrations in the Basque provinces.....Spanish envoys have gone to Tangier to prefer claims upon the Government of Morocco on behalf of Spain.

LONDON, March 28.—A dispatch from Stockholm says it is the Queen, and not the King, who is now ill, and that the symptoms are alarming.

CALCUTTA, March 28.—The Council has reduced the income tax for one year.

Impeachment of a South Carolinian Judge—Drunkenness the Principal Accusation—Virginia Legislature—Expulsion of Two Delegates Recommended.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 28.—The House of Representatives yesterday adopted articles of impeachment against EDMOND W. JONES, Judge of the Second Judicial District. The articles were offered by Mr. SPARROW. Article 1 recites charges of drunkenness and disgraceful conduct in Raleigh; article 2, same offenses in Goldsboro; article 3, same offenses in Tarboro; article 4, same offenses in town of Williamston, Martin County, where he went to hold Court; article 5 charges offenses committed in Williamston similar to those recited in article 4, but differing in certain particulars. The articles are generally supported, irrespective of party. SAMUEL F. PHILLIPS, the Chairman of the Board of Managers, and others, presented the articles to the Senate last evening. They were received, and Friday next at 11 A. M., were fixed upon as the day and hour for the commencement of the sitting of the Court of Impeachment.

RICHMOND, Va., March 28.—The House, tonight, passed the Funding bill as it came from the Senate by 72 to 42. It provides for funding two-thirds of all bonds, stocks and certificates, with the interest accrued and accruing in July next, except the five per cent dollar bonds and the sinking funds. For this two-thirds coupon registered bonds are to be issued, payable in thirty-four years, with interest payable semi-annually. Certificates of indebtedness are to be issued for the other one-third, payable when a settlement shall have been made with West Virginia. The House Committee on Bribery and Corruption, appointed during the railroad war in the Legislature, today resolved to recommend the expulsion of Messrs. FATHERNAUT and ANDREWS, two colored members of the House.

A Man in Arkansas Kills his Wife and Child and Shoots Himself—Another Murder in Arkansas—Vigilants in Nevada—The Grand Jury Directed to Inquire into the Recent Executions—Mrs. Fair's Trial in San Francisco.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 28.—On Thursday last, near Fayetteville, Ark., a man named ROWLAND murdered his wife and babe, and then blew out his brains. They had been separated for some time, and he called to see his wife at her sister's residence, where she was staying, and asked her to walk with him. She took the child with her, and in a few minutes the report of a pistol was heard, and ROWLAND and his wife and child were found weltering in their blood.....WILLIAM DODD, of Woodruff County, Arkansas, was shot and killed on Sunday last by three men named RAINEY, JACKSON and DAY, who met him in the woods and shot him down. They allege that DODD had threatened their lives.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Judge RINGE, of Virginia City, Nevada, yesterday charged the Grand Jury with the duty to inquire into the facts of the hanging of ARTHUR P. HEFFNER, by Vigilantes, and to indict all parties connected with the organization for murder. The Daily Enterprise this morning justifies the action of the Vigilantes, and advises the jury to find no indictments. Probably no indictments will be found.....A sufficient number of jurors have been obtained in the case of Mrs. FAIR, on trial for the murder of her late paramour, CRITTENDEN. The Court-room is thronged.

The New-Jersey Legislature—Erie Freight Bill—A Huge Private Grant Refused.

TRENTON, N. J., March 28.—In the Senate the Erie Freight bill was ordered to a third reading, without amendments; also, the bill increasing Justices' fees. In the House the bill granting to the Cayen Point Dock Company, a private corporation, a strip of land, four miles long and two miles wide, in the Bay of New-York, below Jersey City, and conferring extraordinary powers as to the construction of docks, was debated for three hours, and finally refused a third reading. An attempt was made by the Democrats to bring up the Governor's veto message of the Jersey City charter, but was prevented by motions for delay on the part of the Republicans.

Miscellaneous Telegrams.

MEMPHIS, March 28.—The story of FORRESTER, the supposed murderer of NATHAN, having been here recently, grew out of the fact that a noted St. Louis detective came here in search of him, when it was learned that FORRESTER had been here three months before.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 28.—BARZILLAI HUDSON, of the firm of R. & W. HUDSON, and one of the oldest merchants of this city, died today, aged seventy-eight. He commenced business here in 1813.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 28.—The Republicans nominated their city ticket today, with EX-Lieut.-Gov. STARKE for Mayor, and prominent citizens for Controller and Treasurer.

BOSTON, Mass., March 28.—JAMES LINCOLN, a conductor of a gravel-train, was killed, yesterday, by falling under the cars.

ELIZ, N. Y., March 28.—The Republican Candidate for Supervisor of this town, was elected by a majority of from 25 to 30.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 28.—A first mortgage of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, for $28,000,000, to D. O. MILLS and F. C. CALHOUN, of New-York, was recorded today.

"JEZEBEL" AT THE FIFTH-AVENUE THEATRE.

In the theatrical world it usually happens that when it rains it pours. Still another new comedy was last night launched upon the town. The house this time was the gay little box called the Fifth-avenue, and the play is from the cunning pen of Mr. BOUCICAULT. "Jezebel" was seen for the first time here by an audience great in number and merry and fashionable in character. The cast of the drama is appended:

George D'Artigue, who loved one wo-man and married another.....Mr. D. H. Harkins
Alfred Raymond, who loved both.....Mr. George Parkes
Capt. Bretman, an old salt, in the Ger-man merchant service.....Mr. W. Davidge
Cristel, a gentleman in a serious family difficulty.....Mr. James Lewis
Palma, a Mexican vagrant.....Mr. George De Vere
Cotteau, a Commissioner of Police at Bordeaux.....Mr. W. R. Pierce
Germain, in the household of D'Ar-tigue.....Mr. W. Reckman
Mme. D'Artigue.....Miss Clara Morris
Margaret Bretman, the "forgotten lover".....Miss Linda Dietz
Lucile, the confidante of Mme. D'Ar-tigue.....Miss Kate Clarton
Gertrude, Cristel's last refuge..Miss Nellie Mortimer

"Jezebel" was listened to with deep attention, and while exceptions are itch be taken to both its literary and dramatic methods and implications, there was much to warrant the applause the performance received. The scenic treatment of the piece is in most respects charming, and of the appointments we need only observe, at this writing, that they are all which the manager of this theatre has accustomed his public to look for. That closer examination of the qualities of Mr. BOUCICAULT'S picturesque drama, which must be deferred for the present, we shall endeavor to present to our readers tomorrow.

ATTRACTIVE BENEFIT NIGHT.

A special representation of "La Périchole," and the last to take place for some months at any rate, will occur at the Grand Opera-house to-morrow evening. "La Périchole" is one of OFFENBACH'S freshest operas. While its music is deliciously tuneful, its story is coherent and amusing to a degree few of the composer's libretto have attained to. Besides, it has never been so well done here as by Mlle. AHREN and M. GAUDINS—a fact already recorded in these columns—and the final opportunity to applaud these clever artists in their best parts ought not to be overlooked. To the frequenters of the theatre the occasion appeals with unusual force. The performance is given for the benefit of Mr. JAMES W. MORRISSEY, who, since the opening of the house, has had financial dealings with the audiences, and whose urbanity, from present indications, is remembered by a large proportion of their numbers. Mr. MORRISSEY'S personal popularity, and the real attractiveness of the entertainment, will doubtless cause the auditorium to overflow. The bill and the beneficiary certainly deserve it.

WASHINGTON.

Another Day of San Domingo in the Senate.

Mr. Sumner and the Republican Party—Further Discussion on His Resolutions—Mr. Schurz Performs on the Second Violin—A Bill for the Enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment Under Consideration in the House.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—There is a fact stated here now which indicates pretty plainly what has not heretofore been believed, that Mr. SUMNER has not only turned his back upon the Administration, but that he aims an attack on the Republican Party as well, and that he intends to keep up the fire so long as there is any prospect of the renomination of Gen. GRANT. After it was determined that Mr. SUMNER'S speech was to be made yesterday, Senator ROCKINGHAM is said to have gone to him and entreated him to include in it a paragraph disclaiming any purpose or feeling of hostility toward the Republican Party, so that his speech could not be used against the success of the party in the election in Connecticut next Monday. Gov. BUCKINGHAM foresaw that unless Mr. SUMNER drew in the speech a sharp line between the party and the Administration, the effect in that State of his fierce arraignment would be deeply felt. Mr. SUMNER said he would take it into consideration, and having done so, the next day he declined absolutely to comply with the request, and it will be noticed that no such disclaimer appears.

FURTHER DISCUSSION ON SAN DOMINGO.

Today has been a much more lively day in the Senate, but Mr. SUMNER yesterday killed the interest of the public here in the San Domingo discussion, and the galleries were no more than usually well filled. Mr. HOWE concluded the speech he began yesterday, occupying about an hour and a half after 2 o'clock, in reviewing the Sumner resolutions, and controverting the truth of many statements of fact and arguments which they contained. SUMNER was busily reading over some documents and papers on his desk, but evidently had one ear open for Mr. HOWE, for he gave visible signs of perceiving the force of the Judas Iscariot simile applied to him, which, though not very elegant or in the most approved taste, perhaps, he had himself, it is recollected, applied to Mr. HOWE five or six years ago for hesitating to support an extreme reconstruction measure. Mr. SCHURZ sat with his portfolio open before him, and both he and Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN sprang to the floor together when HOWE concluded. Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN was recognized by the chair, and spoke for a short time—mainly in defense of President GRANT against the personal assault, and reviewing his pre-eminent services to the country in the war, and subsequently during the accidental occupancy of the Presidency by ANDY JOHNSON, when reconstruction measures were entrusted by Congress to his execution, as General of the army. Mr. SCHURZ next gained the floor. He was fully prepared and was at his very best. His power as a disorganizer and a factionist had a clear field. He played one of his peculiar games in debate with even more than his accustomed success. This game consists in making an ingenious and aggravating demonstration, and then, when he has drawn an attack, he is found rolled up like a porcupine with sharp spines sticking out all around, not very dangerous, to be sure, but very annoying to those who may carelessly take hold of it. The sum and substance of his speech was a reiteration of the points against the President made by Mr. SUMNER yesterday. He especially directed himself to the task of setting aside the force of the precedent of our Government in the case of the annexation of Texas, and he tried his best to overcome the position taken by Mr. MONTON that during the pendency of that treaty President TYLER restrained Mexico from an invasion of the territory treated for, by a threat of war, which was understood by Mexico to be such. In the running debate on this subject, SCHURZ handled several Senators who were engaged in it pretty roughly, but failed to controvert Mr. MONTON'S position. At 4½ o'clock he yielded for a motion for an Executive Session, stating that he expected to consume about an hour and a half in the conclusion of his speech. To-morrow the dispatch of Secretary ROBESON to Admiral LEE, in which reference is made to the letter of Capt. TEMPLE, will afford material for a further display of his oratorical scintillations. Throughout the pendency of this San Domingo question, Mr. SCHURZ has played the part of Mephistopheles to Mr. SUMNER'S Faust, and has played it well. Mr. SCHURZ is naturally a destructionist, and he is always at his best when engaged in pulling down. His whole career exemplifies this illustration, and he is as much in his element now as ever.

SOUTHERN DISORDERS—A BILL REPORTED.

The House today began the consideration of the bill reported by Mr. SHELLABARGER from the Select Committee of nine, which is given elsewhere. The Democrats acquiesced in its introduction very gracefully. Mr. SHELLABARGER embarrassed them very decidedly by the generous manner in which he invited them to name a time when the debate should close. They declined to do so, fearing apparently that it might be looked upon as an admission that such a measure really ought to be passed at some time. Mr. SHELLABARGER thereupon informed the House that he would not call the previous question until Monday next, thus giving a whole week for debate. He then opened the discussion in one of the ablest arguments that has been heard in Congress for years. It was a close, logical, lawyer-like discussion of the question before the House, from a constitutional stand-point. In point of respectability, freedom from partisan rancor, or the slightest political feeling, it was very noteworthy. It is a happy augury for the new Congress and a return to the old way of doing things, to see a grave subject like this come up in a careful manner for thoughtful discussion, and it cannot but have its influence upon the country's general estimate of Congress. Mr. SHELLABARGER took the broad ground that under the fourteenth and fifteenth articles of the constitutional amendments, the National Government was bound to protect the citizen in his rights of person, property and in the pursuit of happiness, which, he said, had been adjudged in all the tribunals of the country from the foundation of the Government to the present time to be inherent elements of the citizenship accorded by the Constitution. On this basis, he elaborated the argument in favor of the bill, showing that it was a mere amplification of this power into the necessary detail for its enforcement. Mr. KERR, of Indiana, followed on the other side in a strong States Rights speech, controverting the constitutionality of the measure, and denying the necessity for its enactment. Gen. BROUGHTON, of Michigan, followed in a brief speech on the necessity for action, and the House adjourned. The passage of this bill is not assured. If some of the leading Republicans make up their minds that the bill is not unconstitutional it will probably pass, but there are some who think its effect is to obliterate State lines, and they want to be well assured of their position before voting for it. The Senate will probably take no action until they receive the House bill, and in the meantime talk everybody into utter weariness on the everlasting San Domingo business.

BUSINESS IN THE SENATE.

Mr. ANTHONY'S amendment to the resolution previously passed, restricting the legislation of the Senate at this session, was taken up and considered awhile during the morning hour today. This amendment is to make any bill to suppress outrages at the South, which may be sent to the Senate by the House, a subject for consideration in the former body. The Democrats want to put in a provision that it shall be referred to a committee before action is taken by the Senate. The subject went over while this amendment was under consideration.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

THE SACS AND FOXES.

The delegation of Sacs and Foxes who have been here for some time with relation to their moving from their present reservation to the Indian Territory, had another interview with Secretary DELANO and Commissioner PARKER yesterday, the result of which was that all the differences were harmoniously adjusted, and the Indians will remove into the Indian Territory, according to the treaty stipulations, when they will receive their annuity of goods.

TRANSFER OF FUNDS.

The United States Treasurer today made a telegraphic transfer of $250,000 in coin from the United States Sub-Treasury at San Francisco, Cal., to the Sub-Treasury at New-York, through the Bank of California.

THE HIGH COMMISSION VISIT MOUNT VERNON.

All the members of the Cabinet, Secretary DELANO and the Attorney-General, accompanied the Joint High Commission on a trip to Mount Vernon this morning. There was, consequently, no Cabinet meeting today.

PARDON OF EDWINS, THE DEFAULTER.

CHARLES E. EDWINS, who was convicted about three months ago of embezzling money from the Treasury, and sentenced to six months in jail, was yesterday pardoned by the President, on account of his health.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The Deficiency Appropriation bill has been returned to the House with sixty or seventy Senate amendments. An effort will be made, before the close of the week, to dispose of this subject.

NOMINATIONS.

JOHN W. WALDRON, to be Register of the Land Office at Greenleaf, Minn.; WILL CUMBACK, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fourth District of Indiana.

M. Patterson, [illegible]; Margaret Walker, of Sidney, Ohio; A. [illegible], of Wooster, Ohio.

SAN DOMINGO.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The San Domingo Commissioners have been the chief objects of interest here today, and their movements and sayings have been watched and listened to with much interest. They called on the President this morning and had an hour's conversation. Dr. HOWE also called on Mr. SUMNER, and the result was immediately started that he had promised the latter that he would not sign any report in favor of annexation. Dr. HOWE don't get his opinions from Mr. SUMNER, any more than Mr. SUMNER gets his opinions from Mr. HOWE. The latter is represented to be noncommittal on all subjects connected with the investigation, and to be in a state of considerable disgust because the Commission returned so soon. BEN WADE is recovering from his indisposition, and is making converts to annexation faster than any one else here. When asked what he thinks, an inquirer don't have to wait for a positive reply. He says annexation is for our advantage as well as for that of the Dominicans on every conceivable account, and that it will be a national misfortune to fail. The report is not yet signed, nor, in fact, yet quite finished, although all the main points have been essentially agreed upon. It is not yet determined when it will be sent to Congress.

Mr. SUMNER'S friend and revolutionary patriot, JOSE MARIA CABRAL, who has been so often quoted by the Senator, is at last heard from in a reliable shape, but to an effect which upsets the Senator's calculations, and shows that, being in error as to everything else in regard to San Domingo, he is also in error as to CABRAL, according to CABRAL himself. The following interesting letter was obtained by the San Domingo Commission at Porta au Prince, from a friend of CABRAL, and is genuine, beyond question. It will be seen that CABRAL is even more solicitous for the truth of history than the Massachusetts Senator.

NEYBO, Feb. 18, 1871.

To the Honorable the President of the Senate of the United States of America, Washington.

SIR: The Hon. CHAS. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, in his speech against the proposed annexation of the island of San Domingo, delivered in the Senate of the United States on the 21st of December, 1870, says, "I am assured by the President of Haiti that his policy is to bring the two Governments of Santo Domingo and Hayti once more together, as they were before the revolution and war which followed from 1844 to 1848, terminating in the uncertain independence of the Dominican side of this island." The policy which Senator SUMNER here refers to me not being the one that either my party or myself are pursuing, I consider it my duty to protest, as I hereby do protest, against this part of said speech, and in so doing I believe that I have well interpreted the views of my associates and fulfilled one of the important duties imposed upon me as a party leader. I have the honor to be, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

J. M. CABRAL.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

SENATE.....WASHINGTON, March 28.

MEMORIALS.

Mr. FENTON, of New-York, presented a memorial from several hundred soldiers and sailors, mainly of New-York, referring to the Bounty Land bill of the last session, and asking that it may be amended so as to permit these lands to be held without requiring actual settlement thereon.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, presented a memorial asking for the adoption of such measures as will secure a Court of nations where all questions may be decided without the arbitrament of the sword, and urging that in the points at issue between Great Britain and the United States every effort be made to avoid a war between the two countries.

Under the rule of the Senate prohibiting general business, the memorials, instead of being referred to committees, were laid on the table.

SUMNER AGAIN AS THE COLORED MAN'S CHAMPION.

Mr. SUMNER offered the following:

Whereas, It is represented that FREDERICK DOUGLASS and his son were excluded from the common privileges of travelers on the mail steamer between Acquia Creek and Washington on account of their color; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia are hereby instructed to inquire into the facts of this case, and to report what remedy can be applied to prevent a repetition of such treatment on account of color.

The Vice-President stated that the resolution not being one of inquiry, was inhibited under the rule that new business, and could not be received without unanimous consent.

Mr. BAYARD objected, and the resolution was not received.

ACQUISITIONS FROM MEXICO.

Mr. KELLOGG, of Louisiana, asked unanimous consent to introduce a resolution directing the Committees on Foreign Relations to inquire into and report at the next session of Congress whether the Territory of Lower California and the Mexican States of Sonora and Chihuahua, or either of them, would be advantageous acquisition to the United States.

Mr. SHERMAN objected.

REPLIES TO SUMNER ON SAN DOMINGO.

Upon the expiration of the morning hour, the Senate resumed consideration of the unfinished business of yesterday, being the resolutions of Mr. SUMNER on San Domingo.

Mr. HOWE, of Wisconsin, continued his reply to Mr. SUMNER'S indictment of the President. In a general denial of Mr. SUMNER'S accusations he contended that instead of attempting to sell his country, as charged, BABE had furnished an example worthy of imitation in subordinating his personal aggrandisement, as a ruler, to bring peace to his country by annexation. The proposed sale to the United States, instead of a violation of the Constitution of Dominica, was in direct accordance with it, because the transfer was to be made, not at the arbitrary direction of that Government, but in deference to the popular will of that country. The United States was bound, under the law of nations, and by a clause of the original negotiation, to insure the preservation of peace between Hayti and Dominica, and the notification to that effect was no more an unfriendly act to Hayti than to any other nation, for it was addressed to the world at large. In conclusion, Mr. HOWE contended that the mission of the Republican Party was not ended, and he would beseech the man who would engage in its destruction to take his position with the common enemy, and not, Judas-like, stab in the back the party to which he professed to belong.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN, of New-Jersey, said the whole case made out against the President was, that he had sent war-vessels to Dominican waters to preserve the status quo, pending the negotiations contemplated a free expression of the sentiment of the people upon the annexation question. The moral effect of the presence of our fleet had prevented the shedding of one drop of blood, and Hayti had not utered one word of complaint, and would never know of the great injury she had suffered, until the reading aloud of the Senator from Massachusetts was heard there. The act of the President was entirely justified by the obligations (of international) law. After an eulogium on the services of Gen. GRANT to the country in its darkest hour of peril, he said, this was the man upon whom all the vituperative adjectives of the vocabulary were heaped. He then inquired for what purpose the Senator from Massachusetts had precipitated this discussion, in advance of the report of the Commission, from which alone Congress and the public could form a correct judgment.

Mr. SUMNER said, if the Senator desired it, he would answer now. The Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. HOWE) had complained because he had brought this matter before the Senator from New-Jersey, (Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN,) because he did not postpone it. He (SUMNER) would take counsel of neither Senator, but of his own heart. Knowing that there was a system of lawlessness on the coast of San Domingo under the direct order of the President of the United States, he felt it his duty to expose it. There were some cases in which exigencies were sufficient, and he felt this was one, and that the American people needed only to see the wrong to apply the remedy.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN, in the course of further remarks said that he had not made up his mind on the San Domingo question, preferring to await the report of the Commission and to form his judgment upon it. As a sufficient answer to Mr. SUMNER'S strictures upon the conduct of the Secretary of the Navy, he had read from the desk the dispatch of that official to Admiral LEE.

SCHURZ TO THE RESCUE.

Mr. SCHURZ, of Missouri, then took the floor. He did not think the report of the Commission which had just returned from a year's tour in San Domingo, would prove a very influential, either in the Senate or before the country, for he thought the treaty had already been effectually disposed of. The Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. HOWE) had displayed a wonderful knowledge of ancient and modern history, and was not content with destroying CESAR, CASSIUS, and prominent men of our own times, he had "mercilessly used his hatchet" upon the Senator from Massachusetts. The Senator from Massachusetts was there to show that public men had not declined in popular estimation, until they had manifested symptoms of their own mental deterioration. But, in this matter, the trouble was not so much a want of mental strength on the part of the Senator from Massachusetts, as it was a want of moral strength on the part of many other Senators. If it was proven that orders had been issued to our naval commanders in gross violation of the Constitution, then something more than mere rhetorical flourishes about Gen. GRANT'S services, or about the Secretaries of State and Navy, would be required to answer the proof. Mr. SCHURZ proceeded to argue that, under the constitutional clause vesting in Congress the war-making power, the Executive could not commit an act of war, unless in the case of the actual invasion of the territory of the United States, or in the face of Congressional authority. The instructions of the President to our naval force, directing them in certain contingencies to fire upon the vessels of Hayti, a Power with which we are at peace, was most clearly a usurpation of the war-making power.

In reply to queries of Messrs. HOWE of Wisconsin, and STEWART of Nebraska, as to whether discretionary power was not vested in the President, Mr. SCHURZ added that if those Senators would turn to the debates of the Senate in February, 1850, they would find that President BUCHANAN had asked for discretionary power to protect our citizens in transit over the Isthmus of Panama, and that Congress had indignantly refused it. It was most audacious to contend—for that was the logic of it—that the President had any right to steal the war-making power away from Congress. The fact was, that President GRANT had fallen into the mistake of supposing that he was the United States of America. The doctrine that the President could commit a hostile act without authority of Congress, and give as an excuse for it the condition of things in Hayti and Dominica, was the most absurd, mischievous and Anti-Republican doctrine ever advocated on the floor of the Senate. When such a doctrine was boldly announced, it should be sifted to the bottom. It reminded very strongly of what was called in France "personal government." The Senator from Massachusetts (SUMNER) had been complained of for bringing the matter to the attention of the Senate, but in his (SCHURZ'S) opinion he deserved the gratitude of the whole country for so doing. But the supporters of the President seemed to have admitted the constitutional argument to be against them, and had fallen back as a last resort upon the weak and dangerous support of precedent. The only one referred to in our own history was that of the acquisition of Texas during the Administration of JOHN TYLER, and when JOHN C. CALHOUN was Secretary of State. The President's case was, indeed, a desperate one, when his apologists sought refuge in such company. But TYLER and CALHOUN asked to be excused from their company, because President TYLER at that time asserted he had no authority to employ force for the acquisition of Texas without the assent of Congress. His declaration was that he would use all his constitutional means to prevent Mexican interference pending the negotiations, and that the matter would be referred to Congress, when it met, for such action as it might deem proper. He did not order United States war-vessels to better down Mexican towns or sink Mexican ships, but left the exercise of that power to Congress.

An animated and long colloquy here ensued between Messrs. SCHURZ and MORTON upon the proper interpretation of a dispatch from our Government informing the diplomatic representative of Mexico that the United States would regard with disfavor any attempts on the part of that Power to interfere with the Texans during the pendency of the negotiations.

Mr. SCHURZ contended that nothing more than an ordinary diplomatic correspondence was addressed to Mr. MONTON, which could hardly be analogy to the acts of President GRANT; while Mr. MORTON insisted that it was a direct threat of war, and was so regarded at the time by both countries, and that Mr. BUNTON, many years afterward, had so construed it.

While occupying the floor Mr. SCHURZ was repeatedly interrupted by different Senators upon constitutional questions, and was frequently prompted by Mr. SUMNER, whose seat is in his vicinity.

Before Mr. SCHURZ concluded the Senate went into Executive Session, and at 5¼ adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. POLAND, of Vermont, presented the memorial of ARCHIS H. FISK, claiming that he was elected a member of Congress from the Fourth District of Mississippi, and protesting against the right of all the sitting members of that State. Referred to the Committee of Elections.

REFORCEMENT OF THE FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT.

Mr. SHELLABARGER, of Ohio, from the Select Committee on the President's Message, reported a bill to enforce the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and for other purposes. It was read, and is as follows:

A bill to enforce the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any person who, under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, custom or usage of any State, shall subject, or cause to be subjected, any person within the jurisdiction of the United States to the deprivation of any rights, privileges or immunities secured by the Constitution of the United States, shall any such law, statute, ordinance, regulation, custom or usage of the State to the contrary notwithstanding, be liable to the party injured in the action at law, suit in equity, or other proper proceeding for redress; such proceeding to be prosecuted in the several District or Circuit Courts of the United States, with and subject to the same rights of appeal, review upon error, and other remedies provided in like cases in such Courts under the provisions of the act of the 9th of April, 1866, entitled "An Act to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights, and to furnish the means of their vindication;" and the other remedial laws of the United States which are in their nature applicable in such cases.

SEC. 2. That if two or more persons shall within the limits of any State, band, conspire, or combine together to do any act in violation of the rights, privileges or immunities of any person to which he is entitled under the Constitution and laws of the United States, which is committed within a place under the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, or to deprive any person of any right or privilege of legal consequence or result, use of offices in discharge of official duty, arson, or larceny; and if one or more of the parties to said conspiracy or combination shall do any act to effect the object thereof, all the parties to or engaged in said conspiracy or combination, whether principals or accessories, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof, shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding $10,000, or to imprisonment not exceeding ten years, or both, at the discretion of the Court, provided that if any party or parties to such conspiracy or combination shall murder or attempt or design, commit the crime of murder, such party or parties so guilty shall, upon conviction thereof, suffer death; and provided also, that such conspiracy or combination, not amounting to the Judicial District of the United States, and executed in another, may be dealt with, inquired of, tried, determined and punished in either district.

SEC. 3. That in all cases where insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combinations or conspiracies, in any State, shall so far obstruct or hinder the execution of the laws thereof as to deprive any portion or class of the people of such State of any of the rights, privileges or immunities secured to them by this act, and the constituted authorities of such State shall either be unable to, or shall from any cause fail in or refuse to afford protection to the people for such rights, and shall fail or neglect through the proper authorities to apply to the President of the United States for aid in that behalf, such facts shall be deemed a denial by such State of the equal protection of the laws to which they are entitled under the Fourteenth Article of Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and in all such cases it shall be lawful for the President, and it shall be his duty to take such measures by the employment of the militia, or the land and naval forces of the United States, or of either, or by other means, as he may deem necessary for the suppression of such insurrection, domestic violence, or combination, and any person who shall be arrested under the provisions of this and the preceding section, shall be delivered to the Marshal of the proper district to be dealt with according to law.

SEC. 4. That whenever, in any State or part of a State, the unlawful combinations named in the preceding section of this act shall be organized and armed, and so numerous and powerful as to be able, by violence, to either overthrow or set at defiance the constituted authority of such State, or when the constituted authorities are in complicity with, or shall connive at the unlawful purposes of such powerful and armed combinations, and whenever the execution of such offenders and the preservation of the public peace shall become in such district impossible, in every such case such facts shall be deemed a rebellion against the Government of the United States; and during the continuance of such rebellion, and within the limits of the district which shall be under the sway thereof, such limits to be prescribed by proclamation, it shall be lawful for the President of the United States, when in his judgment the public safety shall require it, to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, and to declare and enforce, subject to the rules and articles of war, and other laws of the United States now in force, applicable in case of rebellion, martial law, to the end that such rebellion may be overthrown, provided that the President shall first have issued the proclamation now provided by law, commanding such insurgents to dis

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Business at the Exchange yesterday, (March 28,) was again active, and the result of the day's transactions on the whole favorable, nearly all the property offered being disposed of at fair prices. None of the real estate, however, included in the various sales, was of such a class as to draw out a large number of investors, and, as a natural consequence, the markets presented less of animation than has marked it during the last two or three successful business days. The following is a brief review of the transactions:

MULLER, WILKINS & CO., by order of the executors of A. H. LAWRENCE, deceased, sold the premises known as No. 13 Park-place, between Broadway and Church streets, embracing a lot 24.6 by 68, with a four-story brick store thereon, 24.6 by 45. E. A. PARMALEE purchased the property for $46,100. At another sale by order of the executors of Mrs. MARY CROW, deceased, Mr. MULLER disposed of a four-story English basement brown-stone house and lot, known as No. 236 Lexington-avenue, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets, for $16,000; purchaser Wm. A. LAMAIR. The same firm also sold at public auction 24 three-story brick houses and lots, the latter 24.9 by 100, with a frame stable on the rear thereof, No. 221 Second-avenue, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets, for $14,250, to E. Brown, and a three-story brown-stone front house and lot, on the south side of Forty-second-street, west of Tenth-avenue, (No. 3 Morris-place,) to John E. Develin, for $22,700. These lots situated on the west side of Ninth-avenue, between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets, were in addition offered, but not sold, although a bid of $600 per lot was received.

Referees sales, as ordered by several Supreme Court sales in foreclosure, under the direction respectively of Messrs. D. F. TRUESDALE, Jr., and GRATZ NATHAN, referees; sold the following property: Four lots, north-east corner of Eleventh-avenue and Eighty-seventh-street, sold in one parcel to F. PATSON for $11,300. Three-story and basement brown-stone house and lot, No. 20 West Nineteenth-street, between Fifth and Ninth avenues, sold for $15,000 to SAMUEL KOCH; also, at public auction, two extra size lots, on the north side of West Forty-sixth-street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues; sold to J. BLAKEWELL, at $2,300 each. The legal sale of a house and lot, on the south side of Thirteenth-street, 100 feet east of Eighth-avenue, under the direction of J. H. COLEMAN, Esq., referee, was adjourned indefinitely, as was also the Sheriff's sale of twelve lots, with water rights, on One Hundred and Twentieth-street, east of Avenue A.

JAMES M. MILLER, at public auction, disposed of the premises No. 61 West Fourteenth-street, comprising a three and a half story and basement brick house, between Fifth and Sixth-avenues, and lot, 25 by 112.2. The building covers the lot. The property brought $68,525, and the purchaser's name, as given out by the auctioneer, was MOLTON. Mr. MILLER also sold the premises No. 173 McDougal-street, between West Fourth and Amity streets—a three-story brick house and lot, 18 feet front, for $16,050; purchaser, GOTTHEIL, to be MERRIAM. But little information could be gleaned from the auctioneer or his clerk regarding either of these transactions, both seeming disinclined to enlighten the public concerning them. At a Supreme Court sale in foreclosure, under the direction of C. A. JACKSON, Esq., referee, Mr. MILLER, in addition, sold a three-story brick house and lot on the north side of Thirty-first-street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues, for $16,600, to ARIA J. MYERS, the owner of the mortgage foreclosed and the plaintiff in the suit involved.

V. K. STEVENSON & SON, R. P. FAIRCHILD, auctioneer, sold two building lots, on the north side of Sixtieth-street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, each 25 by 100, at $1,000 each; purchaser, F. R. METHEUN.

WICKLOFF & LITTLE disposed of the following Brooklyn property: Two full lots on the east side of Willow, between Pierrepont and Clark streets, sold respectively to ISAAC VAN ANDEN and A. HAPAUBUGH, one for $7,250 and the other for $8,000; also, a three-story brick house and lot on the south side of Carroll-street, 250 feet west of Court-street, sold to Mr. NEW, for $8,125; also, Mrs. NANCY STREET for $9,000. The same firm also offered a large plot of ground on the south-west corner of Dekalb-avenue and Oxford-street, which was nominally sold to G. W. OAKLEY for $72,500. The property on Quincy-street, near Marcy-avenue, noticed for sale, was withdrawn.

Sales reported embrace all that were offered. BLACKWELL & MARSH offered a three-story brick house and lot, known as No. 344 East Seventy-eighth-street, between Second and Third avenues, for which $6,800 was bid, but this sum being less than the estimated value, the property was withdrawn. A. J. BLEECKER, Son & Co. also offered a valuable property at Norwich, Conn., comprising a handsome residence and five acres of ground, lately the residence of Mr. A. A. TWINING. Forty-five thousand dollars, the auctioneer stated, would be the highest bid received, and failing to receive an offer of this amount, no sale was made. No further business was transacted.

The sales projected for today at the Exchange are mainly of a legal character, but in the list are included one or two pieces of desirable City real estate. Messrs. A. J. BLEECKER & CO. will also offer property located at Passaic, N. J., and considered valuable.

The details of yesterday's business are herewith appended.

The bids will be opened in the presence of the Board of Indian Commissioners and a committee to be designated by the Secretary of the Interior, as soon as the time for receiving the proposals shall have expired, and the contracts will be awarded as soon thereafter as practicable.

The beef cattle must be good, merchantable cattle, all stears, from three to seven years old, in good healthy condition, and averaging at least one thousand pounds each, live weight, the weight to be determined by weighing on scales when practicable. Their delivery must commence at each of the points named on the 1st day of July, 1871, at which time about one fourth of the whole quantity will be delivered, the balance to be delivered in equal quantities on the 15th day of August and 15th day of August, 1871.

That there may be no failure on the part of the contractor, he will be required to keep the beef cattle in the vicinity of the agency, to be delivered when required; and should the cattle obtained not be in condition for shipping cattle in the vicinity of the agency, or should he fail to deliver them as required, the undersigned will purchase, or cause to be purchased, beef cattle as he may elect, to the value of the cattle said contractor.

All the articles, except Beef, must be delivered at the several agencies between the 1st and 15th day of July, 1871.

The bacon must be sound and sweet, and put up in strong boxes.

The flour to be fresh ground, of XX quality, to be made wholly from good sound wheat, and to be delivered in good strong double sacks.

The coffee to be delivered in double sacks. The sugar to be delivered in barrels full hand-lined.

Proposals will be received for the delivery of any one or all of the above-named articles at any one or all of said agencies.

The undersigned reserves the right to increase or diminish the quantity of cash or any of the articles which the bidder or Bidders propose to furnish.

Bids for beef cattle will state price per pound, gross. Parties bidding for the other articles will state price per pound, net, and furnish a sample of each article bid for except the bacon and salt. The prices must be given without modification, or any proposed modification whatever.

All articles furnished by contract made under this advertisement will be subject to inspection, and such articles as may in any respect fail to conform to the requirements of contract and the sample will be rejected, and in that case the contractor or contractors will be bound to furnish others of the required kind or quality without delay, and if this be not done they will be purchased at the expense of the contractor.

Payments will be made at this office on proper receipts from the agents to whom the supplies are delivered, after the accounts therefor shall have been properly approved.

Each copy of each proposal must have a copy of this advertisement (a slip from a newspaper) pasted at its head.

The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals, if such a course should be deemed for the interest of the Government.

No bid will be considered unless accompanied by a written gu

WANTED BY R. S. BAILEY, No. 8 Wall-st.

OFFICE OF THE OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILWAY COMPANY, NO. 58 WALL-ST.,
NEW-YORK, March 24, 1871.

THE OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILWAY COMPANY having decided to change the gauge of their road from six feet to four feet, eight and one-half inches, so as to make it conform to the gauge of its transcontinental connecting and tributary lines, have, for the purpose of making said change, and providing the necessary rolling stock, and for other improvements and purposes of the Company, arranged a loan of three millions of dollars, secured by a mortgage on the property and franchises of the Company, to be denominated Second Consolidated Sinking Fund Mortgage.

The present funded debt of the Company is $6,500,000, or about $17,000 per mile on 382 miles of road owned and operated by the Company, and connecting the cities of Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis. The total mortgage debt, including the proposed issue of four millions, will be $10,500,000, or about $27,500 per mile.

The new bonds are for one thousand dollars each, with coupons attached, the principal payable in forty years, with interest at seven per cent. per annum, free of United States income tax, payable semi-annually in New-York, on the first days of April and October, in each year, and secured by a sinking fund commencing with twenty thousand dollars per annum, and so graduated and regulated as to take up the whole amount of bonds before their maturity. The bonds entitle the holder to vote, and may be registered.

The Company now offers for sale two millions five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000) as follows: Proposals for the same (in amounts not less that five thousand dollars) will be received, at the office, until noon of the ensuing Saturday, the 30th day of April, stating amount and price offered. The money to be payable in five instalments of twenty per cent. each, as follows: first instalment on acceptance of bid, and the others on the first days of May, July, September and October, 1871. It being understood that, in all cases, the interest which has accrued upon the bonds at date of payment shall be paid by the purchaser, in addition to the price bid.

Proposals to be addressed to the undersigned, and marked: "Proposal for Second Consolidated Mortgage and Sinking Fund Bonds."

exercise their powers and manage said Company without consulting with the other directors as to whether the Erie Road, under its present management is made to accommodate the public, is a question not discussed before the Committee, and in the opinion of the undersigned had nothing to do with this question. No complaint has been made before the Committee of its management in this respect, and I am of opinion that the directors of a railroad, however ill well they manage the road, cannot give that as a reason why they should not reorganize the rights of the stockholders of such road, or why they should squander the earnings of the road, or improperly increase its capital, and appropriate to their own use the avails of such increase. The undersigned, therefore, is convinced (but this act has been, in this Erie case, so manipulated by unscrupulous men, so as to accomplish their own private ends,—has been so prolific in wave and means for fraudulent and unlawful practices—has been demonstrated to be so easily managed by cliques for private purposes, and against the true interests of the stockholders, is so fraught with disastrous consequences to the financial interests of our State and nation that the entrenched position gives those men by this law has made them so confident in their power that they set at defiance public opinion, the Legislature, and Judicial decisions, and that unless the combined action of the people of the State through representation, legislative and executive, condemning their action and compelling them to return to the sound provisions of the general Railroad law, will satisfy the demand of the people of the State, and, as believing, have and do recommend the repeal of the bill heretofore mentioned, and also the amendment of the act of 1869, and amending the act of 1870, and also providing, as far as may be, against the evils practiced by the present directors of the Erie Company to perpetuate their power and deprive the stockholders of and Company of their rights and property. All of which is respectfully submitted.

THE PROPOSED BILL.

The following is the bill referred to in and annexed to the foregoing report:

"An Act to amend chapter 153 of the laws of 1869, entitled 'An Act to amend chapter 874 of the laws of 1867, entitled 'An Act in relation to the Erie, New-York Central, Hudson River, and Harlem Railroad Companies,' to amend section 2 of chapter 157 of the Laws of 1870, entitled 'An Act to regulate proceedings against corporations by injunctions or otherwise,' and to amend the general law in relation to the formation and management of railroads."

The people of the State of New-York, represented in the Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 4 of chapter 153 of the laws of 1869, entitled "An Act to amend chapter 276 of the laws of 1867, entitled 'An Act in relation to the Erie, New-York Central, Hudson River, and Harlem Railroad Companies,' passed May 5, 1869, is hereby amended by striking out of said section the following words: 'The Board of Directors in each of said Companies may so classify themselves as to have not more than one-fourth in number shall go out of office at each annual election, and at the next election all directors in each of said Companies the terms of office of one-fourth in number of those whose terms shall then expire, shall be the classes shall.'

SEC. 2. The Erie Railway, and the stockholders thereof, shall proceed at the annual meeting to be held on the first Tuesday of July, 1871, to hold a stockholders' meeting for the purpose of electing seventeen directors of said Company, and the terms of office of the directors elected at the annual meeting of said Company shall date upon the said first Tuesday of July, 1871, and the seventeen persons having a vote of the majority of the stock of said Company represented at said meeting, shall be the duly elected directors of said Company, and shall hold their office for one year from said July 1.

SEC. 3. At any election of any railroad corporation in this State, or at any election of any corporation, no person or persons shall be allowed to vote upon any stock standing in his or her or their name upon the books of said company, unless such person (or his, or personal as the time the person made, if stock, or a duly executed proxy from the owner thereof, authorizing him to vote thereon, and, upon being challenged, the person offering to vote any such stock shall either produce the certificate of such stock or make and subscribe an oath to the effect that he, or, if his principal, (in case of a proxy,) is the bona fide owner of said share of stock, and explain the absence of such certificate, which affidavit shall be received by the inspectors of election and filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which said election is held, and any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $500, and not exceeding $5,000, or be imprisoned not more than six months, or by both said fine and imprisonment; and any person swearing falsely in such an affidavit shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

SEC. 4. Every stockholder of a railroad corporation in this State, who has owned his, her or their stock for the thirty days prescribed in section 5, title 13, part 1, chapter 18, of the Revised Statutes, shall be entitled to vote upon it, upon producing the evidence of ownership, if challenged, as required in the last preceding section of this act, by a person or proxy at any election of officers, or at any stockholders' meeting, whether his, her or their name is upon the books of said company as the owners of said stock or not, notwithstanding any statute of this State or by-law of the company to the contrary, and no Court shall enjoine or direct the taking of an election, or the transfer of any stock, nor order other officers of any Court seize, take or molest any stock or certificate of stock, presented at any election of directors or stockholders' meeting of any such company upon any pretext, or do any act or thing that may possibly interfere with the owner of said stock in his right to vote thereon at such election or meeting, provided this shall not be construed as prohibiting any sheriff from levying any execution against said stock or the avails of said stock.

SEC. 5. Section 2 of chapter 151, of the laws of 1870, entitled "An Act to regulate proceedings against corporations by injunctions or otherwise," is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Section 2. No officer or director of a corporation shall be removed from office otherwise than by the judgment of the Supreme Court in a civil action in the cases prescribed by the Revised Statutes."

SEC. 6. This act shall take effect immediately.

REGULAR RECORD.

SENATE....ALBANY, Tuesday, March 28.

The following bills were introduced:

By Mr. TWEED—To improve Mount Vernon avenue, in the village of Mount Vernon, Westchester County.

By Mr. CREAMER—Appropriating $16,200 to the Sixth Regiment, National Guard, advanced by them in suppressing the late riot.

By Mr. CHAPMAN—Regulating the Binghamton and Port Dickinson Railroad Company to use rail of a certain quality.

The following bills were reported:

Authorizing the Syracuse Northern Railroad Company to mortgage its real estate and personal property; authorizing the Mayor of Rochester to provide Police Commissioners; amending the act to designate places for the Oswego County Supervisors to meet and regulate compensation; amending the charter of the New-York Colored Orphan Asylum; incorporating the Tonawanda [illegible] College; incorporating the Enterprise Savings Bank at College Point; incorporating the Greenwich Railroad Equipment Company; incorporating the City Trust Company of New-York; providing for the improvement of certain streets in New-York; providing for the proper drainage of lands within the corporate limits of New-York; making appropriations for canal enlargement; the Society of the Sisters of St. Joseph in the City of Troy; providing for the improvement and regulation of several parks in New-York City; incorporating a gas company in New-York to light all that portion of the City lying north of Seventy-Ninth street; amending the act relating to Justices' Courts in the City of Troy, removing the requirement that Justices shall be counsellors-at-law; and allowing either of the Justices to hold Court; amending the [illegible] of the Meeting House Burying Ground; [illegible] the Oswego Savings Bank; amending the [illegible] County of Canandaigua; [illegible] the Citizens' Savings Bank of Troy; [illegible] the act extending the fire limits of Rochester; regulating assessments for street improvements in the City of Troy.

The following bills were introduced:

By Mr. CAMPBELL—Authorizing the Dry Dock and East Broadway Railroad Company to extend their road.

By Mr. HIGGINS—Amending the charter of the Security and Indemnity Company of New-York.

By Mr. WAINWRIGHT—Incorporating the Grand-street Savings Bank, Brooklyn.

The following bills were reported:

Incorporating the New-York Coal Exchange; providing for enlarging the arsenal of Rochester; to [illegible] the South Side Long Island Railroad Company to lay one [illegible] track.

[illegible] HALL (A. D. [illegible]) [illegible] the motion of Mr. FRASER, the Village Railway bill, not unfinished [illegible] was taken up. The question was on granting leave to the Committee of the Whole to sit again, which was carried, and the House again went into Committee on the bill. The pending motion was on Mr. WEED's motion in relation to the establishment of the route, and making the Governor one of the Commissioners, a majority of whom are to decide upon said route; also, requiring maps and profiles to be submitted to said majority. Lost, 46 to 46.

Mr. WEED challenged a count and asked for tellers.

The Chair decided the motion lost.

Mr. WEED insisted upon challenging the count, and called for tellers.

Mr. FIELD raised the point of order that the question was decided.

The Chair decided the point of order well taken.

Mr. WEED insisted upon demanding tellers; amid so much confusion that the Chairman, Mr. CAMPBELL, left the chair and called the Speaker to the chair.

The Chairman then reported to the Speaker that the Committee had been dissolved, owing to the disorderly conduct of the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. WEED.

Mr. WEED then stated that he had deemed it his duty to insist upon the appointment of tellers, and the Chairman had tenaciously insisted upon refusing to grant him his right to call for tellers.

Mr. FIELD said so order had been restored he moved the House go into Committee again.

The Speaker decided that the gentleman had a right to have a vote.

The House then went into Committee again, the Speaker calling Mr. JACOBS.

Mr. WEED then called for his count, saying he was not tenacious about having tellers.

The Chair stated that the Clerk desired that tellers be appointed.

Mr. MCKEAN and ALVORD were appointed tellers. The vote stood—yeas 49, nays 50.

Mr. WEED's motion to amend was again declared lost.

Mr. ALVORD moved to strike out the words "other counties," in order to confine the road to New-York and Westchester Counties, also confining to Westchester County the power of the Board of Supervisors to bond the County.

Mr. SCHEIMER could not understand why this discrimination against Westchester should be made. If it was wrong to allow this bonding by the various other counties, it was wrong to allow it to Westchester. The bill was not like the usual Bonding law. It did not take the voice of the people, it gave the power to the Board of Supervisors to bond to an unlimited extent. Westchester County did not need any elevated railroad, and he asserted that no part of the road proposed to be constructed would be built in Westchester County.

Mr. GERARDS moved that before any county, excepting New-York, shall subscribe to the stock, a majority of the people shall vote in favor of so doing. On motion of Mr. FIELD the Committee rose and reported progress.

In the House, Mr. WEED moved to insert the amendment. Lost by 21 to 96.

Mr. ALVORD moved to recommit the bill, with instructions to strike out the amendments offered by him last night, and adopted, and to insert those offered by him this morning. Adopted.

The bill was recommitted, and immediately reported as amended.

Then, under the operation of the previous question, the bill was passed.

On his name being called, Mr. SCHEIMER protested strongly against action on this bill under the extraordinary construction put on the effect of the previous question. He had desired to offer an amendment as to the mode of bonding Westchester County, and yet it is decided that when the previous question is ordered on the passage of a bill, it means that the bill shall be read at once. The decision of the House was, that the bill should be put on its passage, and when put on its passage it was open for amendment.

The Chair stated that the bill having been read through, the constitutional obligation required a vote to be taken immediately.

Mr. SCHEIMER did not understand that the bill had been read through.

The Chair stated that the bill had been read through. The vote on the bill was—yeas 110, nays 9.

ERIE CLASSIFICATION.

Mr. FLAGG, from the Railroad Committee, submitted a majority report against the repeal of the Erie Directors Classification act. Mr. WEED submitted a minority report in favor of repeal.

Mr. FLAGG moved that both reports be laid on the table, and be printed immediately. Carried.

A recess was taken till ½ 7 P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

The following bills were passed:

Authorizing the City of Rochester to expend $5,000 in fitting up rooms in the arsenal for the Fifty-fourth Regiment; to authorize the Lehigh and Hand Powder Company to take stock in other companies; making provision for the payment of the Brooklyn firemen; providing for the disposal of Excise moneys in Niagara County; incorporating the Nautilus Club of New-York; repealing the act [illegible] Lake Champlain at Rouse's Point; incorporating the New-York Advertising Company; authorizing the City of Troy to fund its bonded debt; providing for repairing sewers in New-York; amending the act to abolish imprisonment in Westchester County for debt; relation to pavements by property-holders; incorporating the Harlem Library; for the relief of the vestry and church wardens of Holy Trinity Church, of Harlem; amending the Binghamton Water act; increasing the jurisdiction of the Court of Special Sessions in the City of New-York; changing the grade of Ninth-avenue and adjoining streets in New-York; authorizing the sale of the Rochester bonds; authorizing the Justices of the Supreme Court assigned to hold general terms to fix times and places for holding the same; prohibiting the throwing of offal or dead animals in the North and East Rivers, and New-York and Harlem Rivers; amending the charter of the City of Troy; providing for the payment of a crier in the Court of Appeals; amending the charter of the Central Park Bank; to facilitate the improvement of One Hundred and Thirty-fifth-street, New-York; providing for the improvement of a portion of Fourth-avenue, New-York; to extend the distribution of Croton water in the City of New-York; providing for the repair of the pavements of the Atlantic-avenue, Brooklyn; providing redress for words imputing unchastity to women.

The Assembly adjourned.

Quick Transit to Harlem—Large Mass-Meeting.

A mass-meeting of the citizens in favor of the Broadway Underground Road, (the Beach Transit,) by which the time occupied in going from the City Hall to Harlem is to be reduced to fifteen minutes, was held last evening at Irving Hall. The attendance was very large. The assembly was called to order by WM. R. MARTIN, Esq., who nominated for President BENJ. F. BEEKMAN, Esq., and for Vice-Presidents Moses H. GRINNELL and about thirty others. Mr. WM. A. WHITNEY was then introduced, and made an extended address upon the necessity, utility and practicability of the road. He was followed by Mr. WM. R. MARTIN, who made a very humorous speech in favor of the present measure and in opposition to that proposed by Mr. A. T. STEWART. He also offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That by the discussion and investigation for ten years past on the subject of rapid transit, the people have reached positive convictions.

Resolved, That Broadway is the natural thoroughfare on this island, made so by the act of the public, and the public have the right to use it.

Resolved, That the facilities of Broadway ought to be increased to accommodate the growing population by the application of engineering science.

Resolved, That the use of Broadway by the public is what gives it its great value, and that this increase of its accommodation will increase its value.

Resolved, That this will benefit the owners of property on Broadway.

Resolved, That we believe the underground road to be practical and economical.

Resolved, That the bill known as the Beach Transit, now before the Legislature, meets the requirements of the question; that it has the best route, an adequate plan, and that there need and determine the question of capital.

Resolved, That we regard the bill as the best practical solution of the Rapid Transit question which has ever been presented; that the question ought to be settled now; and that we ask the Governor to approve the bill.

Speeches were afterward made by Messrs. B. T. BUSSING, JOHN JOHNT, M. B. SCHENCK, ETHAN ALLEN and others. At the close of the meeting the audience were requested to sign a petition which will be forwarded to the Governor today.

A sad scene took place, yesterday, in the Surrogate's office, in the matter of the application of CATHARINE BEELER to remove one JONES as guardian of her minor children. She testified that she had never received any notice of the appointment of JONES as guardian until some time after it was made; that her eldest daughter, EMILY, a very pretty girl of about sixteen years of age, was persuaded to leave home by JONES, who had acted very indelicately toward her, and that the girl was taken by a Gen. ROBERT AVERY, who is in some way connected with the Pension Office in this City, to the Sh. J. Allen Yotel, and kept there one night, and testified to other matters respecting her daughters, AVERY and JONES. She also said neither she nor the children ever saw AVERY, and that they did not know him, though AVERY swears in his petition dated Oct. 25, 1870, that he was a friend of the children. The matter was adjourned for further examination.

JUSTICE FOR ERIE.

Seizures of Rolling Stock at Buffalo, Goshen and Sufferns.

Unsatisfied Judgments Against the Road—Real and Personal Property in the Hands of Creditors—Reminiscences of Carr's Rock.

From Our Special Correspondent.

FORT JERVIS, Tuesday, March 28, 1871.

Mr. C. C. DYER, a well-known resident of Brooklyn Heights, was seriously injured in the Carr's Rock disaster on the Erie Railway in April, 1868. He sued the Company for damages. The case was tried in the Kings County Supreme Court, and resulted in a verdict of $35,000 in favor of the plaintiff. The case was taken to the Court of Appeals by defendants, where the verdict of the Supreme Court was affirmed. On Saturday counsel for plaintiff moved in the Supreme Court, before Judge GILBERT, to have the judgment of the Court of Appeals made the judgment of the Supreme Court.

The motion was granted, and, it being rumored that the Erie Company intended carrying the case to the United States Supreme Court, a writ was issued directing the Sheriff of Orange County to levy upon certain property of the Company. Acting upon the authority vested in him, Sheriff METGZER, accompanied by the attorney of Mr. DYER, came to Port Jervis last night, and at 11 o'clock served an attachment upon sixteen of the Company's locomotives here in the roundhouse and yard, and placed a watch to prevent the getting up of steam in any of them. The engines attached are all of them freight-engines, with all of their appurtenances.

Notices are posted up about the town today, announcing the Sheriff's sale at the Delaware Hotel, in the village, on the 3d of April at 12 o'clock. The affair made quite a stir in town, and it was the all-absorbing topic when made public this morning.

In addition to the sixteen engines, many times the value of Mr. DYER's claim—$35,000 damages and $6,000 costs—this morning the Sheriff levied on all of the personal property of the Company he could find, such as wood, ties, &c. This is explained, probably, by the fact that the rolling stock of the road is mortgaged for $75,000,000, and with such a claim as that on the property just attached, it is not likely to be of much benefit to the plaintiff. Hence the levying on the personal property as something that they can depend more upon.

JAMES ALBERTSON, Esq., the attorney of the Erie Railway Company at this place, went to New-York this evening, and what shape the matter will take will probably be known tomorrow morning.

The Sheriff of Rockland County has also levied on two engines at Sufferns and all of the personal property at that station, and by a telegram from Buffalo I learn that the Sheriff there has levied on the palace sleeping-coach named "J. Fisk, Jr.," and a large portion of personal property. X. Y. Z.

An Explanation.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Under the heading "Another Heavy Judgment Against Erie," you publish an account of the suit of A. B. SEYMOUR against the Long Dock Company, which is calculated to induce the belief that the officers of the Erie Company have unjustly defended against an honest claim. Permit me to state the facts.

Mr. SEYMOUR, at the end of his work in 1861, presented a claim for about $69,000, alleged balance due him. It was disputed, and he commenced suit for something over $300,000. By an interlocutory decree a large portion of his claims were rejected from consideration, and a reference to a master ordered to take proof as to the remainder. Upon coming before the master, his "remaining claims" were presented in a new account, and the amount swelled to $763,000 and ten years' interest. The master has allowed him $20,979 and interest, making his recovery, in all, $32,616, less than five per cent. of his claim.

It is proper to add that this suit has been pending since 1861; that the counsel of the Company, Chancellor ZABRISKIE, Judge BRADLEY, CORTLANDT PARKER, Esq., D. B. EATON, and myself, were always of opinion that the Company owed nothing; and the present officers of the Company have had nothing to do with the suit but to provide for its defense, as it was clearly their duty to the Company to do.

Yours, respectfully,
S. J. GLASSEY, of Counsel.

The Weather Report.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The following is offered:

[illegible] STORMS OF MARCH FOR THE PAST THIRTY-FIVE YEARS.

WAR DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER, WASHINGTON, March 28.—[illegible] storm which was clearing away in the Middle States [illegible] Monday evening has now almost entirely disappeared, and clear weather now prevails with rising barometer from South Carolina to Wisconsin, and these conditions to Maine and northward. The highest barometer has spread from Tennessee north and east, and is now central in Western Pennsylvania. The storm has been stationary or slowly [illegible] in the Mississippi Valley and the Gulf States with easterly and southerly winds, increasing cloudiness and threatening weather. The barometer remains nearly stationary in the Rocky Mountains and on the Pacific coast. Fresh easterly winds prevail on the Gulf, fresh northeasterly on the middle and eastern Atlantic. Elsewhere the winds are feebler than they are at these places.

PROBABILITIES.

Clear weather, with fresh and gentle winds, will probably prevail on Wednesday, from Lake Erie to Virginia and eastward; partially cloudy weather and fall on the Gulf, fresh northeasterly on the middle Atlantic; threatening weather, and possibly rain, in the Gulf States.

Westchester County Town Elections.

The town elections in Westchester County, yesterday, as far as heard from passed by very quietly. Owing to the late hour at which the canvass of the votes was completed but very few satisfactory returns were received.

In the town of Morrisania, WM. CAULDWELL, Democrat, was reported to be elected by a large majority.

In the town of Pelham, BENJAMIN F. HIGGINSON, Democrat, is said to have been re-elected.

In New-Rochelle, GEORGE W. DAVIDS, Democrat, and present Supervisor, was re-elected without opposition.

In Mamaroneck, JAMES J. BURNETT, Democrat, was elected.

In the town of Rye, the contest between STEPHEN A. MARSHALL, Democrat, and AMHERST WIGHT, Republican, was reported to be very close. The former was believed to have a small majority.

The Democrats of Scarsdale re-elected FRANCIS SECOR.

In the town of White Plains, EDMUND G. SUTHERLAND, Democrat, was elected.

The Republicans of North Salem re-elected ODLE GLOSS.

In the town of Somers, the contest was very close between WILLIAM MARSHALL, Democrat, and WILLIAM TEED, Republican, but believed to have resulted in the choice of MARSHALL.

WILLIAM H. ROBERTSON, Republican, is reported to have been re-elected in the town of Bedford.

WILLIAM H. ANDERSON, Republican, (editor of the Peekskill Advertiser,) is reported re-elected in the town of Cortlandt.

In the town of Yorktown, ELIAS G. HORTON, Democrat, is believed to be re-elected.

The old Board of Supervisors was composed of twelve Democrats and twelve Republicans. The new Board, it is believed, will stand fifteen Democrats to nine Republicans.

Women's Medical College—Graduating Exercises.

A meeting of the Women's Medical College was held last evening at the Union League Theatre. The proceedings commenced with an address from Mr. MAHLON STRADELL describing the difficulties women encountered in this profession and the work they were accomplishing.

Miss HAMMOND here introduced two ladies, Miss ANGELL and Miss WATTLES to the President of the College, (Mrs. WILLETT) who presented them with their diplomas.

Rev. THOMAS S. HASTINGS said: We are assembled here as the friends of women. True friends are scarce. Men profess to give women their rights, but still they keep them in bondage. As soon as we are delivered from our professed friends men must awaken their spirits and efforts or they will soon be in the background. Let woman have a fair chance and I fear not for her future.

Judge DALY then said:

Mr. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: The object we are met here to aid this evening appears to me to be a vocation peculiarly adapted to a gentle voice, a soft touch, an acute sympathy for a fellow creature. Who can give such but woman? A nurse by nature, she must more or less be a physician. And yet till of late she has been debarred from studying this profession. Greece, the cradle of medicine, the home of arts and sciences, had a law centuries ago which stands thus: "No slave or woman shall study physic." PLINY and other historians constantly mention in writings that no free woman was ever allowed to practice medicine except in her own household. See, however, what women have done for the profession. The first hospital was founded by a noble lady, a friend of St. Jerome's. The first dispensary was opened by the wife of Duke Cosmo Medicis, in the thirteenth century. In 1500 the Electress of Brunswick founded an hospital and dispensary for the relief of the poor in general. The people of Europe ought ever to be grateful to Lady MONTAGUE, who introduced vaccination into England from Turkey at the time when the whole Continent was plagued with small-pox. For this act she (Lady MONTAGUE) was persecuted the same as we have been—hooted in the streets, and society almost deserted her.

The valedictory address on behalf of the graduates was given by Miss MARY ANN WATTLES, who, after thanking the Trustees, Professors, Examiners, and the Faculty for the kindnesses they as students had received, bade them all farewell.

Reunion of the Alumni of Amherst College.

Mr. HENRY G. DE FOREST, No. 15 West Thirtieth-street, gave a handsome reception, last evening, to the Alumni of Amherst College. The following gentlemen were present: Mr. J. C. CARTER, President of Harvard Alumni; Hon. ERASTUS C. BENEDICT, President of Williams Alumni; Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, and his class-mate, Bishop J. P. BAILEY, Catholic Bishop of New-Jersey; Rev. WM. A. STEARNS, D. D., LL. D., President of the College, and many others. In all there were about 125 visitors. Letters were received from President BARNARD, of Columbia College; Hon. HORACE MAYNARD, Chancellor CROSBY and others regretting their inability to be present. After a recherché supper, at which champagne flowed, the Amherst Glee Club, that was, sang "The Old College Bell," bringing back pleasant memories to the Alumni. Dr. STEARNS then [illegible] the present condition of Amherst College [illegible] with all others interested in [illegible] College, and its [illegible] prosperity.

[illegible] President's salary be increased from $3,500 to $4,000, and Professors from $2,200 to $2,500, and to state that the collegiate fee be increased from $100 to $150. Hon. J. S. TYLER and others made short addresses, and the guests did not retire until a late hour.

Large Fire at Sing Sing—Loss $70,000.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning, a fire broke out in a large frame building owned by Messrs. REYNOLDS & YOUNG, on Main-street, near the Hoffman House, Sing Sing, and notwithstanding the prompt arrival of the firemen the flames spread with great rapidity and destroyed the premises, also two other frame buildings adjoining. REYNOLDS & YOUNG kept a hardware-store on the main floor, and the basement was occupied as a Police station and a Justices' Court, the second floor was occupied for lawyers' offices, in one of which Geo. A. BRAINERD had a library, insured for $14,000. The loss of REYNOLDS & YOUNG is estimated at $25,000, upon which they had insurances to the amount of $14,500 in different offices. The next adjoining building was owned by BENJAMIN TUNSTAL, and occupied by Mrs. FAIRBANKS as a millinery-store, and a shoe-store by JAMES HOWES. The third building was owned and occupied by Mr. JONES, druggist, who was partially insured. The entire amount of damage is estimated at $70,000.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

DAVID LEVY, on March 20, called on THOMAS KEECH, of No. 3 East Forty-second-street, and offered to sell him some English engravings, "the like of which could not be found in the New-York market." LEVY represented the pictures to be worth $600, and, after some little haggling, sold them to KEECH for $60, as he was about to sail for England the next day. KEECH, on March 21, visited BOGARDUS' gallery to exhibit his purchase, and there learned that the pictures could be easily bought in Nassau-street for $1.50. On Monday evening KEECH met LEVY in Washington-street, and caused his arrest, and yesterday Justice DOWLING held him to answer the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Yesterday morning, between 1 and 2 o'clock, Officer KENNEDY, of the Twenty-second Precinct, heard a noise in the grocery-store of HUNTER & CO., corner of Forty-fourth-street and Seventh-avenue. He went in to ascertain who caused it, when a pistol was fired at him, but very fortunately missed him. Two men then rushed from behind the counter, and ran out, one of them breaking his way through the window. The officer gave pursuit and succeeded in capturing one of them, MICHAEL MARTIN, whom he yesterday arraigned in the Yorkville Police Court, before Justice MCGUIRE. He was committed for examination.

In the case of GREGORY against GREGORY, for the past ten years before the Courts, Judge JONES, of the Superior Court, has made an order appointing DELANO C. CALVIN referee, to hear testimony and pass upon the accounts of the receiver of the estate in litigation. This order is made on the petition of the widow and executors of the late JOHN GREGORY, whose property is in litigation at suit of WM. GREGORY, brother of the deceased, and who claims as having been his partner in business during his life time.

THOS. PINDAR, of No. 704 Greene-street, on March 23, was met at the corner of Fulton and South streets, by STEPHEN H. ROWHAN, with two others, who asserted that he had a warrant for PINDAR's arrest on the charge of assault and battery, and demanded $50 for his release. PINDAR, being fearful of the suits, gave ROWHAN $25, and since has ascertained that no such warrant had been issued for his arrest. Justice DOWLING, yesterday, held ROWHAN for trial, in default of $1,000 bail.

Mr. BERGH's officers yesterday seized a swill-fed cow upon its way to the shambles, whose body was in such a state of corruption that one of the side bones of the face protruded through a large ragged cavity, from which constantly flowed purulent matter mixed with blood. But for their intervention the diseased carrion would have been retailed this morning as prime beef.

After a close and searching investigation into the charge of incendiarism, preferred by the City Fire Department against Mr. MARCUS SIMON, of No. 8 Maiden-lane, Judge HOGAN has decided that there is nothing in the evidence against the accused. The fire occurred in a room at No. 6 Platt-street, on the 23d of January last, where Mr. SIMON's furniture was stored, and he has been honorably discharged.

The Police Commissioners yesterday transferred Capt. THOMAS BYRNES from the Twenty-third Precinct to the Twenty-first, and Capt. W. H. CLINCHY from the Twenty-first to the Twenty-third. Sergt. W. H. MCCONNEGH was transferred from the Twenty-first to the Twenty-seventh, vice Sergt. JOHN J. GAY, sent from the latter to the former.

An affray occurred yesterday morning in Putnam Hall, No. 87 Third-avenue, where a ball was being held, during which JOHN HIGGINS, twenty-two years of age, who lives at No. 504 East Eleventh-street, was stabbed in the left side and slightly wounded. He refused to give any information to the Policemen to the assailant, in consequently no arrest was made.

The Michael Feeny contested will case was summed up before Surrogate HUTCHINGS, yesterday, Hon. JOHN McKEON making the argument on behalf of the contestants, with Hon. J. B. CAMPBELL, Esq., counsel for the executors and the Snooks' interest, presented their views on the questions at issue. The Surrogate reserved his decision.

Rev. J. G. WHITE lectured in the large hall of the Cooper Institute, last evening, to an audience of about seventy-five men—women were excluded—on "Auricular Confession." He asserted that the women remain secluded from the meeting of mother, sister or wife with a Romish priest in the confessional.

About 10 o'clock last evening Roundsman RYAN, of the Twenty-first Precinct, found JOHN MCGUIRE, a lawyer, wandering through the streets, suffering in delirium tremens. He had with a pocket-knife inflicted several severe gashes in both his arms, with the intention of committing suicide. His injuries being considered dangerous, he was removed to Bellevue Hospital.

Odds and ends of all sorts, from a yawl to a knitting-needle, which have accumulated as unclaimed property during the past three months, were sold yesterday at public auction at Police Head-quarters. The prices obtained were, as a rule, very low, and in all about $600 were realized from the hundreds of articles sold.

At the Jefferson Market Police Court, yesterday, before Judge COX, JOHN SHEA, an officer of the Fourteenth Precinct Police, was committed for trial at the Court of Special Sessions, in default of $500 bail, for an unprovoked assault on Mr. WM. F. QUINLAN, a reporter of the Herald, as the Canal-street fire on Saturday evening last.

JACOB EDLER, driver of Metropolitan Fire Engine No. 16, while passing through Second-avenue, near Thirty-seventh-street, about ten days ago, was thrown from his seat, and died on Monday from the injuries received. He was thirty-three years old, and lived at No. 237 East Twenty-fifth-street.

Attention is called to the concert to be given this evening at the Allen-street Presbyterian Church. Lovers of good music will find it a choice affair at a popular price. Miss MARIA BRAINARD and others will appear.

The "Charity Ball" for the benefit of the "Nursery and Child's Hospital," which took place on the evening of the 3d of February, resulted as follows: Total receipts, $15,300; expenses, $2,325 11; nett proceeds, $12,974 89.

One of MARVIN's celebrated safes preserved all the books and papers of WAGNER, SCHNEIDER & Co., in the fire of Saturday night.

BROOKLYN.

In view of the present war of words being waged by some of the divines of Brooklyn on the subject of total abstinence versus moderate drinking, the following figures showing the relative strength of the churches and liquor-saloons in that city are of interest: By the Directory for the present year, it appears that there are 1,695 places where rum is retailed, against 228 churches. If, as it is asserted, at least 60 regular customers are required to support each of these saloons, we have 98,100 steady tippers as the result, and by adding to this number 1,500, to represent those who drink only occasionally, 100,000 will appear as the number of those directly interested in the liquor traffic in the city. Now, if an average attendance of 500 persons be allowed to each of the churches which is certainly large, the strength of the religious party appears to be 114,000; but since, according to the last census, there were not quite 200,000 males in the city, and since the church attendance may safely be said to be composed of two-thirds women and children, and since seventy-five per cent. of the drinkers are men, it appears that the churches can only muster 37,166¾ against 76,050 on the side of rum.

The jury having in charge the inquisition as to the cause of the death of EDWARD L. CONKLIN of Brooklyn, whose body was found in the Wallabout on the 19th inst., under suspicious circumstances, came to the conclusion, at 12 o'clock last night, that accidental drowning was the cause of death. No evidence to lead them to such a conclusion, however, was elicited at the inquest.

JOHN B. GOUGH has recovered from his recent illness and will deliver a lecture on "Temperance," at Lafayette-avenue Church, corner Lafayette-avenue and Oxford-street, on Tuesday evening, April 4, under the auspices of the National Temperance Society.

NEW-JERSEY.

After many fruitless attempts on the part of humane members of the Senate, a bill has been passed at last for the prevention of cruelty to animals, and on Saturday it received the signature of the Governor, and became law. There was a good deal of opposition, but without result. It has long been needed, for the cruelty practiced toward horses and mules in Newark and other parts of New-Jersey is horrible. Many New-Jersey drivers are captured by the humane BERGH as soon as they leave the ferries on the New-York side, but on the New-Jersey side they lash and kick the poor animals without any fear of being molested. Several influential residents are about forming a society, after the example of the American Society of New-York, for carrying out the humane law just passed. The community will, we hope, in future be spared the sickening reports which so frequently appear in the columns of the Press of the
